

KNIFE BIN BID TO STOP STABBINGS

Report by Richard Guttridge

A KNIFE surrender bin will be placed in Dudley as police take action following a series of stabbings in the borough.

Police chiefs are to place the bin in a town centre location after the borough was shocked by three stabbings in eight days last month.

There are already bins in place in Wolverhampton and Sandwell and another is planned for Walsall to encourage the collection and destruction of weapons.

Police believe the bins are useful tools in helping to tackle knife crime, which gives people the opportunity to help rid the streets of knives without fear of recrimination.

Mansoor Mahmood, aged 24, died after being knifed in Brierley Hill High Street. It came after stabbings in Lower Gornal and Sedgley.

Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson said a knife bin would be placed in Dudley within weeks, after proving successful elsewhere in the Black Country.

More than 140 weapons – including axes, swords and knives – have been recovered from the latest opening of surrender bins in the West Midlands.

Police revealed the secure bin on Dunstall Road in Whitmore Reans, Wolverhampton, had the highest number of dumped weapons with 54 blades.

Zombie

These included three swords and the kind of vicious 'zombie' knife that has been recently outlawed

Mr Jamieson said the key to tackling knife crime was getting the message through to children when they are at a young age that carrying knives was unacceptable.

He said: "We are determined to take tough action against the sort of people who are carrying knives. The really sad thing is that most of the offenders are boys in their teens and the victims are boys in their teens and aged up to 24."

"We can't arrest our way out of the problems. A lot of boys who find themselves in problems lack a father figure and find themselves drifting into gangs."

"We need to look at children when they are nine to 13, and educate them and to get them to understand the consequences of carrying knives."

"The very simple message is if you carry a knife the chances are someone will use a knife on you."

ALL SYSTEMS GO FOR GAMER ON GADGET SHOW

Nick Browne, of the Vintage Gamer shop in Halesowen, who is to have a major role in Channel 5's The Gadget Show at Christmas

A RETRO video game specialist from the Black Country will feature on Channel 5's Gadget Show over the festive period.

Nick Browne, owner of Vintage Gamer shop, was approached by the team behind The Gadget Show. They then spent over two hours filming him and around his shop in Halesowen.

The Gadget Show, now in its 24th series, puts both old and new gadgets through their paces.

The team filmed Nick discussing which forgotten gaming gems could be hidden away in people's lofts and also took a look at all things Pokemon Go. They also spoke on the advances in console gaming along with some of Nick's own tips and advice, which will be screened on December 21.

Nick said: "It was very surreal to have them come over and film. I think it'll be a little cringe to watch myself but it'll be great as I've never been on TV before."

"The presenter, Jason (Bradbury), asked me what prized possessions I've got that's rare and expensive so I told him about a game I've got which is ridiculously rare. The game was originally for the Nintendo NES console and is called Duck Tales, based on the Disney film.

"There's only 150 numbered games in the world and 20 that aren't numbered as they were the first original batch. To find one is ridiculously hard but I've got three – one numbered and two from the original batch. I'm on the hunt for more even though the last one I bought cost me nearly £1,500."

Nick opened his first gaming shop in 2013 before moving to his current premises in 2014 which is home to a video game arcade.

Road concern raised after fatal crash

A STRETCH of road in Shropshire where a Black Country motorcyclist died is to come under scrutiny after a coroner vowed to write to highways chiefs about it.

Halesowen motorcyclist Jason Gardener, a welder, died when his Suzuki motorbike collided with a Toyota Rav 4 on the Stourbridge Road between Six Ashes and Bridgnorth.

John Ellery, coroner for Shropshire, Telford & Wrekin, said he would write to Shropshire Council's traffic safety manager at the conclusion of an inquest on the fatal accident on the A458.

Mr Gardener, a 43-year old welder, who lived at Hawne Lane, crashed at the junction of the Stourbridge Road with Woodyard Lane on May 15. He died of multiple injuries, the inquest held at Shrewsbury was told last week.

Mr Ellery heard from witnesses that the day had been clear and visibility good on the stretch of road.

Dangerous

Matthew Timmins, from Perton, near Wolverhampton, had been behind the Rav 4 as it prepared to pull out of Woodyard Lane onto the A458.

"I know how dangerous that junction is so I hung back," said Mr Timmins. "Just as he was turning right, that was when the accident occurred."

"I heard a huge noise and saw the bike hit the car and spin in a clockwise motion down the road. That junction is horrendous."

In summing up, Mr Ellery said: "This is a junction that is a matter of concern. I will write to Brian Williams, traffic safety manager at Shropshire Council, about this."

"The appropriate conclusion is one of a road traffic collision."

The driver of the car, John Launchbury, declined to give evidence at the inquest.

Collision investigator, PC Chris Duffer, said that it was impossible to say how fast Mr Gardener been travelling prior to the accident.

Etheridge is given top UKIP post by new boss

EURO MP and Sedgley councillor Bill Etheridge was this week appointed to UKIP's top team just hours after new leader Paul Nuttall replaced Nigel Farage.

Mr Etheridge, an MEP and also Dudley Council member, is his party's new defence spokesman.

He said: "I am excited and it is a great honour."

"It is an area where the party will make a big difference as it is our policy for a big increase in spending. I'm a big believer of the phrase 'peace through strength'."

Mr Etheridge pulled out of the UKIP leadership contest to back Mr Nuttall, a personal friend. Merseyside Mr Nuttall won with more than 60 per cent of the vote from UKIP members.

Mr Etheridge said the party will be targeting the Black Country and Labour voters.

Fury over 'nonsense' health survey figures

DUDLEY is the unhealthiest place in the UK followed by Walsall in second and Wolverhampton in sixth, according to figures from... a gambling company.

Dudley Council bosses have hit back, saying the figures are 'nonsense'.

Walsall Council has reported Sports Betting Online, which compiled the figures, to the national health watchdog.

The figures show the number of gyms, McDonald's restaurants, swimming pools, sports clubs, sporting events, public parks and cycle routes - all per 100,000 people.

Dudley was found to have the worst gym to population ratio with just three per 100,000. Walsall topped the statistics for the ratio of McDonald's outlets to people, with 14 per 100,000.

Local authorities have rubbished the statistics, which they say has been compiled with 'little knowledge' of the region.

Dudley has at least 20 gyms, including eight outdoor, with a population of around 300,000. This means its ratio of gym to people should be around six to 100,000, not the three to 100,000 suggested by the figures.

While also including Stourbridge and Coleley, Dudley has six McDonald's restaurants. This means the ratio would be around three to 100,000, not the ten to 100,000 suggested by the figures.

Unhelpful

Councillor Rachel Harris, cabinet member for health and wellbeing in Dudley, says the town has 81 fast food outlets per 100,000.

She said: "National surveys such as this are unhelpful and confusing for people as they are often based on little knowledge of an area or the hard work that goes on. In Dudley we have a very active programme of work to promote healthy lifestyles and tackle obesity."

"There are eight free outdoor gyms to use in our parks which accompany a packed programme of physical activity and healthy cooking sessions run by our dedicated staff."

"Add to that our successful walking for health, the daily mile in schools, disability sports provision, exercise referral, Dudley food for health and the Dudley rowing programmes, it is clear to see we are working very hard to encourage people of all ages to lead fit and healthy lifestyles."

Parents protest in support of warden

Parents and children join lollipop lady Gail Maiden at the protest calling for crossing wardens to be retained

ANGRY parents have stepped up their opposition to Dudley Council's plans to scrap school crossing patrols.

Around 30 parents protested outside Quarry Bank Primary School against the funding withdrawal for lollipop wardens in the borough.

Placards were held by concerned mums and dads, reading 'child safety not council cuts'.

Jennifer Walker, whose six-year-old daughter attends the school, organised the campaign.

She said: "We are aware that Quarry Bank is one of the busiest roads in the borough and we were extremely upset that the council even thought of cutting it as it serves the school directly."

"Gail, who has been our lollipop lady for more than 15 years, is a staple in the school - she is absolutely golden and is there rain or shine."

"We are a thoroughfare for all nearby places in the Black Country and traffic can be very heavy. All parents are really concerned about this, crossing patrols should be sacrosanct."

Dudley Council currently funds the school crossing service but say the continuing reductions in funding from central government has prompted a review of the service in an effort to save £395,000.

The local authority is not legally required to fund the service and is suggesting alternatives, including schools funding the patrols themselves.

90-year-old dies in road accident

A 90-YEAR-OLD man was knocked over and killed on the busy A449 near Wombourne, just yards from his home. Two men have been arrested in connection with the incident.

Frederick Dudley, of Bearnett Drive, Upper Penn, was reportedly struck by a black VW Scirocco travelling towards Himley on the Stourbridge Road, near the Miller & Carter restaurant.

A 27-year-old from Wolverhampton and a 25-year-old from Kingswinford have been arrested over offences connected with the incident and given bail.

Eyewitness Paul Smith, of Lloyd Drive, comforted Mr Dudley as he lay dying in the road. He said the victim had just got off a bus. Witnesses should call Staffordshire Police on 101 quoting incident 570.

Location of new leisure centres is key factor

TWO new leisure centres will need to be within easy reach of everyone in Dudley borough, the council's regeneration boss says.

Controversial plans to close the borough's three existing centres and replace them with two new facilities were revealed last month.

Dudley Council regeneration boss Councillor Khurshid Ahmed said that he expected one of the centres to be in Dudley, which meant it was important that the other, that is likely to be in the south of the borough, could be accessed easily.

If that was the case, it would mean either Stourbridge or Halesowen would be left without a leisure centre.

Hundreds have signed a petition calling for the plans to be scrapped.

Mr Ahmed said: "If we go from three to two, which is likely, we have got to make sure there is connectivity and they are easily accessible.

Struggle

"It needs to be within 20 minutes commuting time. Anything beyond that and you struggle to get people to go."

In response to the council's move, former councillor and cabinet member for environment and leisure, Tracy Wood, set up the The Save Our Leisure Centres campaign. So far 1,400 people have backed it.

"I'm going to continue building the campaign and putting pressure on the council to prevent the leisure centres from closing," she added.

Councillor Ahmed said no decision had been made yet and a full report would be going to the council's next cabinet meeting.

GP accused of sex attacks on patients

A GP has been accused of sex attacks on three of his patients, police have revealed.

Dr Jaswant Rathore has been charged with 10 counts of sexual assault and will appear before Walsall magistrates on December 23.

West Midlands Police said last night charges against the 58-year-old, of Ploughmans Walk, Wall Heath, related to alleged offences against three of his patients.

Dr Rathore, who works at a surgery in the Dudley area, previously served as Dudley Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) clinical executive for finance and business intelligence.

Dr David Hegarty, chair of Dudley CCG, confirmed on Friday that Dr Rathore was no longer a board member at the CCG. He left the board on December 31, 2015.

A West Midlands Police spokesman said: "Specialist officers are supporting the victims and we would urge anybody else with information to call 101 or contact Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111."

Sisters notch up 200 years together

Irene Crump, right, and Phyllis Jones

THESE twins have proved they're quite the sister act after celebrating their 100th birthday.

Irene Crump and Phyllis Jones have spent a whole century together after being born 25 minutes apart on November 20 1916 – and even live together in Stourport.

The twins – who aren't identical but look remarkably similar – attended the same school and also shared their first job at Steatite Porcelain Products before Irene married farmer Samuel Crump.

The duo put their milestone birthday down to 'hard work and good food' and celebrated in style with 48 friends and a traditional Sunday roast.

Irene, the younger of the two, said: "We often celebrate our special birthdays together, and we had a lovely day."

"We celebrated our 90th together, and last year we celebrated our 99th birthday too."

"Hard work and good food is our secret, that's all I can put it down to."

The twins have each other's first name for their middle name and say they have always been close.

Irene added: "We've always been close and we live together now, Phyllis moved in with me five years ago. I can't walk very far now but Phyllis walks around the block every day."

Both Irene and Phyllis married. Irene's husband Samuel died in 1999 and lived well into his 90s, and Phyllis' husband, Ray Jones, died aged 91 in 2006.

Although Irene never had any children, Phyllis' only son, Carl Jones, helps care for them both.

Carl, 58, said: "They live independently and they're doing great."

Hospital consider alarms after fatal fall from bed

HOSPITAL bosses are looking at bed or chair alarms for some elderly patients after a 96-year-old woman died after falling from a bed in Russells Hall Hospital.

Thelma McDermott also hit her head against a bin as she fell from a bed on which rails had been lowered.

An inquest heard that Mrs McDermott suffered an acute subdural hematoma in an emergency care ward on August 25, after being taken to the hospital for the second time in two days. The first was after falling in her room at Prestwood House Nursing Home, near Stourbridge, and the second after staff at the home became worried about her condition.

After the fall in hospital nurses rushed to Mrs McDermott's aid. Doctors agreed her injuries were too severe for her to be saved. She was taken back to Prestwood House, where she died on August 29.

Cannock Coroner's Court heard that Mrs McDermott had been on a bed with the rails down and at 4.36am a loud crash was heard. She was found on the floor with a laceration on her head. She was taken for a CT scan and found to have an acute subdural hematoma.

Attention

It was suggested she may have been reaching for pull-cord to get a nurse's attention when the fall happened.

Nurse Martin Gallagher said that Mrs McDermott had been given anti-slip socks and the rails had been lowered on her bed for safety reasons. He said: "The rails are not on the bed to restrain patients, they are there to stop patients rolling over the side and falling out in their sleep. There was no explanation as to why she had fallen. She was in a confused state."

Jane Fugh, lead nurse for the emergency care department, said: "The hospital is currently investigating whether more formal risk assessments should be made and whether bed or chair alarms should be installed."

Senior Coroner for South Staffordshire, Andrew Haigh, said that Mrs McDermott was generally in good health but did suffer from dementia. "The fall and the head injury is a significant factor. This was not a natural death," he said. "I don't order the hospital to carry out a further report as I have already heard that staff are looking at different options."

He delivered a narrative conclusion, saying Mrs McDermott was unwell and had a fall.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

A BBC reporter covering the Autumn Statement assured us that the Government's plan to pay off the deficit by 2020 is now on the shelf and out of the window.

HEINZ produced a TV advert showing how to play a tune using empty baked-bean tins. But after receiving just nine complaints about the alleged danger of kids cutting themselves on sharp edges, the Advertising Standards Authority has banned it. However, since the ban was announced, the ad, and variations of it, have gone viral with just three YouTube videos attracting between them more than two million viewers. So nine complainers and the ASA ban have given Heinz more publicity than it could have dreamed of. In this internet age, banz meanz viewerz.

YET another bunch of parents and kids have been disappointed when a day trip to see Santa turned out to be a tent in a waterlogged field, this time in Derbyshire. But the giveaway, surely, was the name. By this time in human history, we should all be very wary of any attraction involving the words winter, wonderland and grotto. Especially in November.

ON the very day that the Government announced plans to upgrade Britain's broadband, a neighbour came around in despair, his phone once again on the blink. While the latest all-singing, all-dancing hyper-fast fibre broadband would be truly wonderful, some of us out here on the urban fringe would be pathetically grateful for anything that works in the rain.

ED Balls took lot of stick on Strictly Come Dancing before being voted off at the week-end. But of all the contestants, he was closest to the original idea of the show which was to take people from different walks of life, teach them to dance and see how good they could become. Instead, genuine clod-hoppers like Balls find themselves pitched against established showbiz stars who are used to performing song and dance routines, not to mention Olympic gymnast Claudia Fragapane who enlivens her dances with effortless one-handed cartwheels, for goodness' sake. By voting for Balls to stay for ten weeks, viewers defied the experts, refused to toe the line and made a sloping playing field just a bit more level.

MYSTERIES of our time. A full refurbishment of Buckingham Palace will cost £370 million. A full refurbishment of the Palace of Westminster will cost more than 10 times as much, at £4,000m. Now, it may be that the Westminster job really is 10 times bigger than the one at Buck House. Or could it be that politicians spend public money like water while Her Majesty is known to watch every penny?

Nuisance fires are being investigated

NUISANCE rubbish fires at a Dudley trading estate near an existing 3,000-ton waste mountain are being investigated by environment watchdogs.

People living near Shaw Road say there are regular fires at a site on Dudley Central Trading Estate and 'hot ash and cinders' fall from the sky most evenings as a result.

Residents are already having to put up with a huge mountain of rubbish on the opposite side of the road at Rowan Oak Waste Ltd. The Environment Agency and Dudley Council have said they are investigating the fires.

Residents and businesses on Dudley Central Trading Estate say in a letter that there were 'unauthorised fires every weekday night'.

The letter to The Chronicle's sister newspaper, the Express & Star, continues: "No-one is interested enough to do anything about the activities - eventually there will be a major fire on the estate as a result of this continual burning, with hot ash and cinders falling from the sky most evenings."

They add that the fires usually take place at around 5pm each weekday night.

A spokesman for the Environment Agency said: "We've had reports of waste being burned in the evenings at the Dudley Central Trading Estate site. We're working with Dudley Council to investigate and will take appropriate action where necessary."

Dudley Council confirmed that it has also been informed of the unauthorised burning of waste on Shaw Road.

Reduction in council tax relief set to hit poorest

By Richard Guttridge

THE poorest families in Dudley borough are facing a rise in their council tax.

Dudley Council is set to make changes to its reduction scheme, which aims to support low-income families by giving them council tax relief.

Currently, those eligible for the reduction pay 20 per cent of the council tax bill. The amount they will have to pay is now set to rise by two per cent, despite two-thirds of people who took part in the consultation stating they were against the move. The change could save the council more than £150,000.

Currently those eligible in an average Band D property pay £267.56 annually towards the full charge of £1,337.8. Next year's council tax has yet to be set but, if it remains the same, the amount to pay will rise to £294.32.

A decision is set to be made at a full council meeting on Monday but a report states the two per cent increase as the favoured option. Other options include keeping the scheme as it is, or even a five per cent rise.

Finance

The council's finance boss Councillor David Sparks said chiefs had done 'all we could' to protect low-income households but the authority needed to cut costs as a result of Government funding cuts.

The council currently grants around £19 million in council tax reduction, while still collecting around £120m from the rest of the borough.

A consultation on the proposals found that the majority of people preferred to keep the scheme as it is.

A total of 113 of 280 people said they 'strongly disagreed' with the proposals and 68 'disagreed'. Only 38 'strongly agreed', while 60 'agreed'.

Conservative councillor Steve Clark, shadow member for finance, said: "It is going to affect the most vulnerable people in Dudley."

Crooks steal from hospice shop

Goods donated to the Mary Stevens Hospice charity shop in Wordsley were stolen from an adjacent garage

RAIDERS made off with Christmas stock after a break-in at a charity shop in Wordsley.

Thieves targeted a garage at the back of The Mary Stevens Hospice Shop, on Lawnswood Road, which was used to store donated goods.

The heartless crooks stole up to 60 bags of donations. Staff were left devastated when they turned up on Tuesday last week to find everything had been stolen.

Area manager Gail Phillips said the garage had been half-full, but would not be used for storing donations again. She said: "We are all really upset about it. These were items generously donated."

The staff believe the theft must have taken place after they locked up on Monday (November 21). Among items stolen were goods being gathered to create the Christmas hamper sold to raise money for the hospice.

The raid comes after the Stourbridge hospice launched its biggest fundraising drive, to raise £3 million for a revamp of the hospice on Hagley Road. The Wordsley shop is open again and determined to continue raising money.

Keeley Mason called on fellow supporters to help replace the store's stock by donating more goods in the run-up to Christmas. She said: "This charity is very close to my heart as they took care of my nan. The majority who work for the charity are volunteers and the charity runs by our support and donations."

Donations can be made directly to the shop. Meanwhile, police are investigating the break-in.

Bill of over £402m to deal with youngsters

MORE than £402 million has been spent over the last year across the West Midlands on problem youngsters, which might have been prevented, according to new figures.

The Early Intervention Foundation, a charity that helps identify potential problems and helps families tackle them before they develop, has estimated the high cost of failing to intervene in time.

Early intervention involves identifying children and families that may be at risk of running into problems in areas of health, education and crime. It aims to prevent youngsters from dropping out of school, getting involved in crime or developing serious mental health problems.

Health visitors and youth offending teams are among those whose services may be called upon. If these problems are not spotted early enough, the cost of dealing with them later soars.

The charity said that in Wolverhampton £105 million was spent which equates to around £413 per person. In Dudley £107m was spent, working out to £337 per person, and in Birmingham £397 million was spent, equating to £357 per taxpayer.

Late intervention, such as hospitalisation and incarceration, tends to be more expensive.

A spokesman for the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children said: "Prevention is always better than cure, saves children from personal pain and suffering, also has the potential to alleviate the pressure on services."

Praise for cyclists who raised £1k

CYCLISTS from across the Black Country raised £1,000 for Wolverhampton's Compton Hospice in Halesowen Athletic and Cycling Club's biggest ever annual sportive.

The Halesowen One Hundred Sportive attracted more than 200 participants, who followed either a 100km or a 50km route from the club's Manor Abbey Stadium into the Worcestershire countryside.

It was backed by Black Country cycling legend Hugh Porter, a patron of both the club and Compton Hospice, who said he was delighted to see the event grow.

"We had an excellent turnout of cyclists and the numbers are increasing year on year," said the four-time former world champion.

3D print sweets at Merry Hill centre

THE world's first 3D printer to create sweets has been launched in the UK – including at Katjes Magic Candy Factory at Merry Hill shopping centre.

The printer may sound like something out of a Willy Wonka story but it actually allows people to print, in eight flavours, an edible shape including a message, hand drawn design or even a selfie – and it can be done in five minutes.

It is the first ever food certified 3D printer for gelatine free sweets, available online and in major shopping centres.

Pupils learn at canal heritage site

PUPILS from Wren's Nest Primary School had a chance to take over exhibition space for National Takeover Day 2016.

Dudley Canal Tunnel and Limestone Mines welcomed the Year 5 students to learn about the roles of curator and exhibition designer at the heritage site. Then they created an exhibition of their own design on the theme of Victorian life.

Takeover Day 2016 is the latest initiative by Dudley Canal and Tunnel Trust working with youngsters since opening their new Portal building.

Builders stump up for cricketers

DAVID Wilson Homes Mercia has donated £200 to a tournament at Himley Cricket Club.

Now in its seventh year, the Black Country Floodlit T20 competition was held over six days and includes six local teams – Himley, Stourbridge, Wolverhampton, Halesowen, Brewood and Staffordshire.

To add to the festivities, some of the regions local breweries were on hand to offer their finest hand pulled cask ales throughout the week.

Pub grotto to cheer up children in hospital

STAFF stood in for elves when they made Santa's grotto at a Stourbridge pub.

Staff from the Britannia Inn at Wollaston have also filled the pub with festive goodies.

Entrance to the High Street pub's grotto is £5 and runs until Christmas, allowing youngsters to meet Santa and receive a gift.

Money raised will go towards buying Christmas presents for patients at Birmingham Children's Hospital.

Christmas concert

A CHRISTMAS concert is being held at the Methodist Church on Stream Road, Kingswinford, next Saturday (December 10). The BJ Concert Band perform at 7pm and musical director Steve Tromans invites the audience to join the singing. For free tickets call Mervyn Jackson on 07949 719757.

Shocking figures for serious crime by children

EIGHTY children aged 10 or 11 were arrested for numerous serious offences – including rape – in the West Midlands last year.

Two children were arrested on suspicion of raping a girl under 13 while three were arrested for the rape of a boy under 13 in 2015.

Eleven 10 to 11-year-olds were arrested on suspicion of assaulting a person and causing them actual bodily harm, with a further five arrested for assault by beating.

One other was arrested for common assault and five more on suspicion of robbery.

The figures, released by West Midlands Police, showed in total 80 children aged 10 and 11 were arrested in 2015.

An NSPCC spokesman said the charity was concerned about the number of recorded alleged sex offences.

He said: "We know many sex offences against children are committed by their peers and it's crucial that work continues to understand why this behaviour is adopted."

"Ensuring these young people receive treatment and boosting the availability of support for their victims is key. Sexual offences, whether committed by another child or an adult, can have lifelong consequences."

Another child, aged 10 or 11, was arrested on suspicion of being involved with the production of cannabis, a class B drug.

Two children were arrested for attempting to wound a person with intent.

Speed camera call over road safety

A POLICE chief is calling for the return of speed cameras in a bid to reduce deaths on the roads – after Dudley Council revealed plans for new cameras on Birmingham New Road.

West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson has highlighted speeding as the issue that keeps coming up in investigations into fatal collisions.

It follows the decision in 2013 to switch off speed cameras in the Black Country because they were deemed too costly to run.

Mr Jamieson said he was asking councils to look again at this policy.

He said: "I am pressing them to take action where appropriate. Speeding over and over again comes back up."

Black Country's novel romance

DUDLEY author Nancy Carsen's latest romantic novel was released in paperback this week.

Her ninth novel, Poppy's Dilemma, is about a railway worker's daughter in the Black Country in the 1850s.

Former walk-in clinic is up for rent

A FORMER health walk-in centre in Dudley, which caused an outcry among residents when it closed, has gone on the market.

A senior Labour politician was among the supporters of a campaign to keep the Holly Hall clinic – which served 50,000 patients a year – open. But despite protests it was closed last year, replaced by an urgent care centre at Russells Hall.

Now the NHS is looking to rent out the centre, which could be used as a day centre, nursery or even a school.

It is on the market with a guide rent price of £1,667 per month.

Councillor Elaine Taylor, whose Netherton, Woodside & St Andrew's ward includes the former walk-in centre, said she was against the building being left empty. But she maintains it should be brought back to its original use as a walk-in centre.

She said: "I do welcome any new investment because empty buildings do not do anybody any favours. I still feel this has to come back to the original use of the building."

"I was against the closure of Holly Hall in the beginning and I still think the new centre is not serving the people it needs to because of its location."

"Having said that, buildings that are left empty just turn into a state of disrepair."

Labour MP Andy Burnham, on a visit to Dudley when he was Shadow Secretary for Health, warned that closing the walk-in centre could be a 'major mistake', saying: "It's obvious how valued this centre is because it's seeing 30,000 people a year."

The clinic used to see people without an appointment between 8am and 8pm in the week and up to 10pm at weekends. The new centre at Russells Hall Hospital is open 24 hours a day.

A description of the property on Rightmove suggests that it could become a clinic, day centre, crèche nursery or school.

New images of the centre, also on the property website, show the interior has not changed much from when the building was open.

The property comprises a reception, waiting room, eight consulting rooms, office space, several toilets, basement and a barrier controlled car park.

Every donation helps to make a difference

"EVERY donation matters" – that's the message from staff and volunteers busily working behind the scenes at the Black Country Food Bank.

The charity's warehouse in Brierley Hill is where every item donated is logged and stored before it is delivered to its 19 distribution centres. People can visit these centres to exchange vouchers for three days of emergency food supplies.

Around 40 volunteers work sorting donations and ensuring they are delivered to the different centres depending on demand. Every item is checked and the best before date written on it to ensure supplies are used in the right order.

"The biggest crime we commit is to waste food so it's important that we know when it has to be used by," said volunteer Kelvin Bates.

Any donation which must be used urgently is passed on to The Good Shepherd Ministry in Wolverhampton which serves hot meals to those in need.

Within the warehouse, items are stored by food type to make it easier for supplies to be gathered and for monitoring of stock.

"It's not as much as it looks. The cereals might just be enough for a few weeks and the whole lot would run out within a few months without further donations, said Mr Bates who has been volunteering for the charity for 11 years.

"We are grateful for everything we receive, every donation matters and makes a difference,"

Crisis

Last year, the warehouse distributed 36,000kg of food across the Black Country which had been donated from the community including 70 churches and 50 schools.

It's not just food. The charity also hands out toiletries and cleaning supplies.

The charity provides crisis provision to an average of 1,400 people per month. Of those around 40 per cent are children.

The main issue people face is benefits being delayed or stopped, which leaves them turning to the food bank for help. It partners with around 250 local agencies in an effort to ensure that food goes those in genuine need.

Mr Bates, aged 68, from Brierley Hill, said the charity was well-supported in the community.

"This job restores your faith in humanity. It's wonderful to see what people have given to help people they have never met and are never likely to. "We often hear about the bad things that are happening in the community – we don't tend hear about all of the good things. This is the good that is happening every day," he added.

Jen Williams, aged 67, from Kingswinford, has been volunteering for 12 months, having previously worked at Debenhams and as a hairdresser.

She said: "I was amazed at how much this food was needed. I had no idea how hard some people were finding it just to get enough to eat."

"I love volunteering here because I know I'm doing my bit to help those less fortunate."

The Black Country Food Bank is one of the good causes which will benefit from the Express & Star's Feed A Family This Christmas appeal.

With the help of readers The Chronicle's sister newspaper wants to provide families with Christmas treats they would otherwise not be able to afford as well, as supplying them with store-cupboard essentials to keep them going through the festive season.

As part of the Feed A Family campaign, the Express & Star will also be supporting The Well (Home of the Wolverhampton Food Bank), the Good Shepherd Ministry in Wolverhampton, Smethwick Food Bank, Walsall North Food Bank and Cannock and District Food Bank.

Also receiving support will be The Haven which provides both practical and emotional support services to women and children who are affected by domestic violence and homelessness.

IN MY VIEW

Stella's not on the ball with latest assertions

I'VE always had a lot of time for Stella Creasy, the West-Midland born MP for Walthamstow once seen as a rising star of the Labour Party.

This is partly because I remember her as a young parliamentary assistant to then Dudley North MP Ross Cranston after finishing university in the 1990s. But more to the point, unlike some of her perpetually disgruntled colleagues, she has come up with some original ideas and thought-provoking campaigns. Her work exposing the extortionate interest rates of payday lenders is a case in point.

But her latest assertion, that the consistent underperformance of the England football team is down to the fact that not enough players went to comprehensive schools, is way off beam.

Miss Creasy says 13 per cent of players picked for England are privately educated – twice the national average – meaning that the talent pool is too narrow.

But, 13 per cent actually amounts to two players, Theo Walcott and Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain.

But if Stella did a bit of digging, she would find that over the years a disproportionate number of England footballers actually went to a single comprehensive school – Idsall School in Shifnal, which is close to where the FA academy at Lillleshall is based.

I know everyone loves a bit of diversity these days but I don't think the failure of the England team is down to Wayne Rooney and Raheem Sterling being too posh. You could blame the money-obsessed Premier League and its demands for instant success, meaning clubs would rather buy ready-made overseas players than nurture their own talent. Or you could blame successive governments, including those of Miss Creasy's party, for selling off school playing fields. But really, I think it's down to the fact that our footballers are not very good.

NOW I doubt if there has ever been much honour among thieves. People who say such things tend to be the sort of devy eyed, rose-tinted sentimentalists who recall how the Krays had nice table manners.

But there are some crimes taking place today which truly defy belief, that one could not possibly imagine even a couple of decades ago.

Take last week's break-in at the Mary Stevens Hospice shop in Wordsley.

Thieves stole 50 bags of items donated to make hampers which would raise money for those with incurable illnesses.

What sort of person steals from the terminally ill? While we don't know the motives in this case, all too often it turns out that drugs are involved somewhere.

What I do know is that the maximum sentence for a non-dwelling burglary is 10 years. Maybe it should be used more often.

FROM football hardman Vinny Jones to Welsh singer Charlotte Church and soap star Patsy Kensit, the Clothes Show doors have opened to a cornucopia of stars in Brum over the years.

Other notables include Dawn French, socialite Tara Palmer-Tomkinson and singer Alexandra Burke who have all graced the event since it debuted in 1989.

This year the show stages its last event since moving to the city in 1990, before relocating to Liverpool next year. It takes place from tomorrow, Friday to Tuesday. Caryn Franklin MBE ran The Clothes Show for 12 years from 1986 to 1998.

As final preparations are made for the NEC's last Clothes Show Live, ALEX ROSS looks back at its colourful history

She said: "When I began presenting the BBC's Clothes Show as Fashion Editor of i-D Magazine back in 1986, I had no idea it would have such a far reaching effect and long-term impact on public perception of the fashion industry."

"Our approach to showcasing high-end designer fashion alongside artisan and high street product together with personal and homemade creativity to celebrate all body types, ages and tastes caught the imagination of the nation and beyond." Among the now-famous models who were first found at the show were Brownhills-based model Erin O'Connor, Oliver Cheshire, Sami Rollinson and Rosie Tapner.

TV personalities were also unearthed – from Cat Deeley to Holly Willoughby and Vernon Kay. Presenters have also included Dermot O'Leary, Louise Redknapp, Gok Wan and Fearnie Cotton. Music acts, dancers and models have also taken to the stage to entertain the crowds. They include Boyzone, JLS, Charlotte Church and Alexandra Burke.

This year the event is recognising and celebrating the talent of young people within the music industry.

It is carrying out a search to find a male and female artiste who will become the headline acts in the iconic Alcatel Fashion Theatre, in association with Capital FM.

At its launch in October, 1986 on the BBC, The Clothes Show was designed to bring high fashion to the general public, tackling issues such as sweatshops and eating disorders.

Viewing figures rose throughout the 1980s and 1990s, peaking to nine million on the Sunday night.

The live show has seen more than 100,000 visitors every December.

It has become an important day in the calendar to mark fashion history and heritage.

But it has not been without its problems over the years. In 1991 many people were actually snowed in because of the bad weather and had to stay at the NEC overnight.

Roseville calling... remember us?

I'm not sure if anyone knows the little village of Roseville, Coseley. That is of course anyone except the railway users at Coseley station, for two years now I along with other business owners have been constantly badgering Dudley Council regarding the parking issue, now I'm wondering if they realise we even exist!

Our car parks are blocked from 7am until 7pm. Every time you ring you're told, we're aware of the problem and it's being monitored.

We now have to park outside the village and walk in, as do our customers. God forbid you ever park on the library and are left with a note reading: 'if you're not using the library don't use the car park'.

Now it's beginning to affect our trade as people will just drive off. I telephoned one councillor only to be told there is no problem in Coseley.

Come on Dudley MBC why not try and make our wish come true...all we want for Christmas is some consideration.

The King is a true megastar

REGARDING the King, Elvis Presley. I think it's so brilliant to see the two albums of the King with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra (If I Can Dream, The Wonder Of You) go to number one in the album charts - almost 40 years after his passing.

That makes it a record 13 number one albums, which sits proudly alongside his 21 number one singles, also a record.

A true megastar - a word loosely used for a lot of stars today.

Elvis Presley always wanted to sing with an orchestra, I hope we get more of these recordings.

He also sold more records than any other artist and spent more time in the charts than any other artist.

His music will never fade, a true great artist, no one else comes near.

Failings on dementia homecare

IT was shocking and shameful to hear the news last week that so many people with dementia are not being treated with the dignity and respect they deserve when being cared for at home.

It beggars belief that homecare for dementia is not being taken seriously, with one in three homecare workers receiving no dementia training at all. This must change.

It is the difference between seeing a well-trained homecare worker making a confused person relaxed and happy, and someone without that competence making life intolerable for everyone involved.

As an Alzheimer's Society supporter and the former Dignity Ambassador for the Government, I urge your readers to sign the Alzheimer's Society petition and call on the Government to fix a broken homecare system: www.alzheimers.org.uk/fixdementicare.

Ditch the tired old rhetoric councillor

COUNCILLOR Khurshid Ahmed states that Dudley Council have come up with 'exciting proposals'. The proposals are simply to close three good leisure centres and build two.

Now what would be even more exciting and thrilling would be if the three were invested in properly and two new leisure centres were built to replace the ones already shut down from Brierley Hill and Coseley.

Instead we hear the same old tired rhetoric. They always tell us that the buildings are falling to bits. Here in Halesowen we are used to all that, because it was all said before. There was a change in political power and - Hey Presto! Halesowen Leisure Centre stayed open and they shut down Brierley Hill instead.

Of course, the real culprits are the Tories who are cutting and cutting services. They circle like vultures and can't wait to privatise the NHS.

In this area their cuts have closed the fire station, the ambulance station, the law courts and the social services office.

It is time that the Labour Council said enough is enough, but instead they make foolish statements about 'exciting proposals' as though we might actually believe such nonsense!

Keep all leisure centres open by investing in them.

Hippodrome is an 'eyesore'

HAVING read the article in Dudley Chronicle regarding the Hippodrome, I have a couple of questions to ask.

Who is going to fund this crazy scheme? Five million pounds is not easily raised. I only hope the tax payers are not funding it!

If these people are given the keys for five years that means the eyesore remains for six years at least.

I really cannot imagine that these people will be able to get the venue up and running but they should consider tidying up the frontage first.

Electric cars spark 10,000 Jaguar jobs for the region

THE boss of Jaguar Land Rover wants to make new electric vehicles in the West Midlands, creating 10,000 new jobs at the auto maker and up to 60,000 more in its supply chain across the region.

Ralf Speth has also outlined ambitions to double JLR's car production to one million vehicles a year by 2020 – and double its workforce to 90,000.

Allstars help mayor raise charity funds

FORMER Wolves stars including ex-captain Jody Craddock turned out to boost a fundraising match for the Mayor of Dudley's charities.

Hundreds of supporters saw the Wolves Allstars team turn out against Dudley Town, at The Dell Stadium, in Brierley Hill, on Sunday.

Some of the funds will be given to The Black Country Fibromyalgia Support Group which is backed by Dudley Town.

Funds will also be given to charities backed by mayor Councillor Mohammed Hanif. These include Friends of Alfie Johnson, which helps children with disabilities, the Dudley group of Diabetes UK and Dudley CIL, which helps people who are physically and visually impaired.

Councillor Hanif donned the number two shirt for Dudley Town and put in a short cameo appearance in the match. The Allstars team won 6-0. Colin Taylor, Seyi Olofinjana and Greg Walters were among the scorers.

The plans were outlined as a special meeting of political and business leaders at Warwick University on Thursday night, organised by Professor Lord Kumar Bhattacharyya, a close adviser to JLR and its Indian owners, Tata Motors, and the head of the university's Warwick Manufacturing Group.

Lord Bhattacharyya said JLR wanted to start work on the electric cars project at Coventry by 2018, with cars going into production by 2019.

It follows the launch of JLR's first electric car, the I-Pace, in Los Angeles last week.

Generation

It will be built in Austria 'because we couldn't do it fast enough in this country,' said Lord Bhattacharyya.

"But the next generation will be done here, hopefully. That will create 10,000 jobs, and there will be more employed at suppliers. That could literally be another 50,000 to 60,000 jobs among suppliers in the region."

Mr Speth had also said he wanted to produce one million cars a year by 2020 – the company is expected to make 500,000 this year.

"For that they will have to double the workforce to around 90,000," said Lord Bhattacharyya.

Massive investment has seen JLR's workforce double to over 40,000, including more than 1,000 jobs created at the brand new engine factory built on Wolverhampton's i54 site.

Club is going under the hammer

The former Conservative Club, most recently Bar Eleven, offered for £250,000

THE FORMER Stourbridge Conservative Club building, which is now a bar and night-club, is being sold in a property auction next week.

The building in New Road, most recently known as Bar Eleven, has a guide price of £250,000 when it goes under the hammer.

It is one of 109 lots in SDL Bigwood's final auction in the Holte Suite at Villa Park on Thursday, December 8, starting at 11am.

Bar Eleven is an independently run nightclub with three bars and a capacity of 300. It is open all week and hosts DJs and tribute bands on a large fully equipped stage.

After closure of the Conservative Club in 2007, the building on the ring road became a target for vandalism. But it was then brought back into use as a live music venue and recording studio called Mochers Jailhouse, which opened in 2012. Two years ago Mochers was taken over by Bar Eleven.

On website Rightmove the property is described as a spacious, traditional building. It is configured to provide bar areas, club room or music venue. It states that the property is considered suitable for a variety of alternative uses or redevelopment, subject to planning permission.

Ceremony is held to honour organ donors

BLACK Country organ donors who have saved lives have been posthumously honoured at a special ceremony. The Order of St John award for Organ Donation, run in conjunction with NHS Blood and Transplant, was presented to their loved ones.

The ceremony held at Birmingham's Queen Elizabeth Hospital saw the awards presented by the Deputy Lieutenant of West Midlands, Dr Heidi Doughty.

Kenneth Harrold from Kingswinford, accepted the honour on behalf of his son, Graham John Harrold. From Halesowen were both Annalyn Eulogio, on behalf of her husband, Reden Eulogio, and Joanne Rimmer, on behalf of her father, Ron Bentley.

During 2015/16, the number of deceased donors in the UK went up from 1,282 to 1,364, a rise of six per cent. However, there are still around 6,500 people on the UK transplant waiting list – around three people die each day in need of an organ.

Keith Hunter, of the Order of St John, said: "We hope the example set by the organ donors, whose lives we are honouring, encourages many others to join the NHS Organ Donor Register." Visit www.organdonation.nhs.uk or call 0300 123 2323

Actor gives a sneaky peaky of TV schedule

STARS of Peaky Blinders are due to return to Dudley in March when filming of the gangster drama resumes.

Star of the hit TV series, actor Cillian Murphy, confirmed that work on series four starts in the spring, when he was interviewed at the premiere of new movie Free Fire.

The story of Brummie gangsters is set between the wars and much of the filming takes place at the Black Country Living Museum, on Tipton Road. Peaky Blinders has become an international hit and inspired a fashion craze for 1920s haircuts and caps.

Thousands of fans join in tribute to brave Lydia

THOUSANDS of football fans paid a moving tribute to young Lydia Pearce Ameson, the Dudley girl who died from a rare illness last week.

A packed Molineux – some 28,000 supporters – marked the passing of the 15-year-old Wolves fan on the 15th minute during the match on Saturday by providing a minute of applause in her honour.

Lydia's family and friends were welcomed by Wolves in an executive box as the club hosted Sheffield Wednesday in a Championship match.

Fans of both teams paid their respects to Lydia, who was diagnosed with Neurofibromatosis Type 1 when she was just 18 months old.

The illness is a rare genetic condition which causes tumours to grow along nerves.

Crowd

Wolves were losing after conceding from the penalty spot but that made no difference to the outpouring of emotion, with the club's biggest home crowd in 18 months applauding the youngster.

All around Molineux tens of thousands of people stood up to applaud, including almost three thousand of the fans from Yorkshire.

The Express & Star's Wolves reporter Tim Spiers said: "It was a thunderous ovation, despite the fact the team had just gone behind. It was a really emotional moment."

Sarah Ameson, her mother, said: "It was fantastic and there was a little star above us and we said that was Lydia."

"Everyone at the Wolves looked after us so well and we would like to offer a huge thank you for all their support."

"There were nine of us all together

Wolves' Danny Bath visited Lydia

Fans pay tribute to Dudley Wolves fan Lydia Ameson during the 15th minute including Lydia's uncles, godfather and three of her friends.

"The atmosphere was amazing. Her name even shot up on the big screen in the Molineux. It was just perfect."

Captain Danny Bath visited Lydia's home in Dudley last month to hand over a signed shirt to the Bishop Milner Catholic College pupil.

Her mother said: "She was a beautiful and confident girl who loved her family and friends very much. She loved music, dancing and theatre. She had also done a Bake-Off style charity fundraiser in aid of Neurofibromatosis."

A JustGiving page which was set up for Lydia has raised nearly £10,000. To donate visit www.justgiving.com/crowdfunding/lydiapearceameson

From heartbreak to fundraising to help Daisy

A FAMILY in Dudley have turned their heartbreak into a fundraising campaign after being told their newborn daughter has cystic fibrosis.

Mother-of-two Samantha Carrier struggled to cope after being told the news about newborn Daisy, which was detected from a heel prick test five days after being born.

Samantha and her partner Rob Evans, from Gornal, raised £676 within seven days of the diagnosis.

Samantha said: "We had a knock on the door from a nurse from Birmingham Children's Hospital telling us she had tested positive."

"We went straight to the hospital the next day to get the medication and get the process started and it was that day we decided we wanted to fundraise and put our minds to something else to raise awareness."

Shouting

"I couldn't really cope with it at first so I started a JustGiving page with an aim over £1,000 over 12 months but we've raised over half within a week."

"On the first day it got up to £500 which I couldn't believe because I was running around shouting when we only had £100."

"Ian Austin MP has also offered to help in any way he can."

Cystic fibrosis is a genetic condition in which the lungs and digestive system can become clogged with mucus - causing problems with breathing and digestion from a young age.

Over many years, the lungs become increasingly damaged and may eventually stop working properly.

A number of treatments are available to help reduce the problems caused by the condition, but unfortunately average life expectancy is reduced for people who have it.

Facing the future together - Samantha Carrier with daughters Daisy and Grace

"The hospital have been really positive but they said a treatment for the condition is being blocked by the government because it's so expensive," says Samantha.

"The aim of it all is to make people aware of cystic fibrosis and try and help push for that necessary treatment."

"We want to raise money for the trust because they're amazing, they support families and research and fund new treatment."

Samantha's daughter Grace, two, also tries to lend Sam a hand when she can.

"Grace helps as much as she can with things like banging on Daisy's chest and sides to move any mucus," she added.

Former part time fireman Michael Jewkes with comrades in 1963

Mr Jewkes find his uniform still on the peg, where it's been hanging for more than 50 years

Mr Jewkes tests the old fire siren during his visit to Dudley

Love me tender - Mr Jewkes checks over the machinery left at the old factory fire station

Firefighter 'Little Mike' takes a trip back in time

A FORMER firefighter has travelled back in time to a recently discovered, perfectly preserved factory fire station in Dudley, where he used to work.

Michael Jewkes, aged 80, said it was an 'emotional' revisit to the old station, which has been gathering dust for 60 years, and was only recently uncovered inside the Alan Nuttall Partnership factory on Hall Street.

Mr Jewkes' name is one of those on jackets still hanging at the lost station, which was set up by his former employer the Co-operative Wholesale Society to tackle any fires that might arise in the course of manufacturing items for local Co-op stores.

Michael's journey into his past began after his granddaughter spotted the story on the Express & Star website.

Mr Jewkes, who now lives in Lowestoft, explained: "All the family are originally from the area. My granddaughter lives in Yeovil but she still reads the Express & Star online. She saw the story about it being discovered and told me. I called the number and spoke to Anna at the Alan Nuttall Partnership Trust and they arranged for me to come and visit."

Frozen

He added: "I must admit, I was like a two-year-old child with a stick of rock. I couldn't believe it after all this time."

Nothing could have prepared Michael for just how much remained intact, almost as if it had been frozen in time, down to the neatly rolled-up canvas hoses still on the walls.

Particularly evocative for him was seeing all the names of his former colleagues scrawled in chalk above the jackets.

"I could hear all of the voices and all of the banter. I could remember the nicknames. I was very tall so they used to call me Little Mike," he said.

"I hadn't been back for 54 years. It was very emotional. I was remembering all of my comrades. We used to look out for each other, like a big family."

Mr Jewkes explained how between 1960 and 1964 he worked at the factory making safes for the supermarket business, but twice a week he would go for training as a firefighter in the company's small brigade of about 25. This included learning life-saving skills such as resuscitation.

He was relieved that he never had to put this into practice.

"The biggest job we had was probably when the paint shop caught fire, and the van was set alight. But fortunately everyone was out safely," he said.

He and his comrades proved their mettle in a competition with other Co-op forces with Mr Jewkes named champion. A certificate in recognition of this remains on display in the room.

In action for an exercise to test firefighting skills, Michael Jewkes during his time in uniform

Museum's bid to raise £10,000 in just 72 hours

THE Black Country Living Museum is launching a bid to raise £10,000 in 72 hours to bring its colliery back to life.

The popular open air museum is calling on the public to help reach the total.

Bosses have also teamed up with TheBigGive.org.uk which will match every donation pound for pound.

Revealing their plans a spokesman for the museum on Tipton Road said: "Coal mines and collieries were the heart and soul of the region."

"They fuelled the industrial development of the Black Country and helping to create the world we live in today."

"We want our visitors to be able to experience this story for themselves and to do this we're going to revitalise our Racecourse Colliery."

In order to complete the work the museum staff need to raise £205,000.

So far £80,000 has been collected with donations from sources such as Arts Council England and the Owen Family Trust.

Challenge

The museum has already raised £80,000 from sources, including Arts Council England and the Owen Family Trust, but in order to complete the work are looking to raise £205,000 in total.

Between Tuesday this week and tomorrow (Friday) the museum is taking part in The Big Give's #ChristmasChallenge with the aim of raising £10,000 in 72 hours.

Once all the money is secured and the project is finished visitors will be able to see Charlie, the museum's pit pony, pull a tub along the restored tramway.

Museum chiefs fear the tub tramway could be lost forever unless investment is made.

The museum also plans to install a pit cage to show how miners were lowered into the shaft, with demon-

Museum bosses want to enhance visitors' knowledge, enjoyment and understanding of the area's rich industrial past. They aim to add a host of new characters to talk about the region's history and provide stories of real people who once worked at the colliery. A video about the project on The Big Give website. Visit www.bclm.co.uk for further details.

Eager recruits for army style discipline at college

TEENAGERS from across the Black Country have been attending a unique college for those with hopes of a career in uniform.

The Military Preparation College, which opened this summer in Dudley, is run by ex-military veterans and aims to help people aged 16 to 19 prepare for future employment or further education, as well as moving into careers in the Armed Forces.

The college, which opened in July, receives Government funding to operate and students spend half of every day outdoors by taking part in a range of physical training exercises. There are more than 20 military preparation colleges across England and Wales.

Instructors work with each young person to help them achieve their best and help them get their foot through the door and into their aspiring career in the armed forces.

Struggled

Some of the pupils struggled with typical school education and have left or been expelled and have now been enrolled onto the army style course.

If the students would rather have a career in another sector, help and skills are provided, along with GCSE qualifications.

There are also military preparation colleges in Wolverhampton at Frankley for Birmingham.

Paul Evans, regional manager for the military college in Birmingham, Wolverhampton and Dudley, said: "For some of the students here school has been tough or they haven't enjoyed it so they have therefore suffered."

We offer an alternative curriculum which students will enjoy more."

Paul added: "It takes an average of six months before the students are Ben Kirkham and Tiff Slade run ready to go on into the army. They can start any week and leave any week they like."

Two ex-military staff are instructors at the college and assist the students with their physical training schedule.

Artists' 88th and last display at gallery

Artists Keith Turley, Lynn Jeffery and society chairman Terry Glazebrook at the town gallery's last exhibition

THE Dudley Society of Artists is holding its last exhibition at the town's museum and art gallery, a few weeks before the venue closes.

The art group's 88th exhibition is to be the last at the St James's Road gallery. It opened on Saturday with 130 works by local artists on display.

When the free admission exhibition closes on December 22, so too will the building, ending a long relationship between the venue and the society. The museum is due to move to a new base at the Dudley Archives centre on Tip-ton Road, near the Black Country Living Museum.

Artist and society member Keith Turley said: "It is a big blow but it is not going to stop our club and we will still exhibit at other Black Country venues."

The museum and gallery building is closing to the public as part of money-saving measures by Dudley Council.

Store on pub car park

A NEW £1m Co-op store will be built on the car park of a Black Country pub after planning bosses gave the green light.

The new shop will be constructed next to the Hare and Hounds on Wynall Lane, Stourbridge, with the pub also getting an investment of around £75,000.

Developer NewRiver Retail Ltd was granted planning permission by Dudley Council, despite objections, and said that up to 20 jobs could be created.

The development firm said money would also be spent revamping the Hare and Hounds.

Dangerous

But Cradley and Wollescote Ward Councillor Richard Body was against the development because of more traf-fic on an already 'dangerous' road.

"Having parking there would make the road even more dangerous," he said. "Accidents happen on a regular basis. We have the main road with a blind bend and a bus stop next door to a pub, which will have half of its car park gone. Parking already takes place on the pavement."

The 326 square metre one-storey store will be built on part of the car park, which was described as 'cur-rently underutilised' in the planning application.

Duo's marathon trek in memory of Alf

Friends Tom Broomhall and Joe Cartwright are to walk from the Black Country to London for charity

A BUILDER is to walk more than a marathon daily for three days to raise funds in memory of his father. Tom Broomhall, 25, from Broseley, is to embark on the marathon challenge with his friend Joe Cartwright, 25, from Wombourne, just after Christmas. The lifelong friends are to walk 125 miles from Wombourne to London beginning on December 28. They are hoping to raise £500 for the British Heart Foundation in memory of Mr Broomhall's father Alf, who died in August after a heart attack. Mr Broomhall said: "On August 31 this year my father sadly passed away from a heart attack. "He was 66, it was a shock. We are raising the money in memory of Alf for the hope that the charity can continue to the brilliant job they are doing. Each year 160,000 people die from a heart attack and a further 73,000 people die from coronary heart disease in the UK alone, hopefully we can reduce this number. Why physics radiates fun

YOUNGSTERS were encouraged to don their lab coats and goggles as a city MP joined them to take part in an experiment. Pupils at Smestow School in Castlecroft were joined by Rob Marris for a radiation experiment as part of a project to encourage more children to take up physics. He visited the school to talk to teachers and pupils about the Institute of Physics' Stimulating Physics Network. The project pairs schools with a teaching and learning coach with the aim of retraining teachers of other science specialisms to be physics teachers. Head of science at Smestow, Jack Whitehead, said: "Physics is a wonderfully interesting and diverse subject, yet the numbers of pupils choosing it at A-level is falling, particularly amongst girls."

Seven homes among top of 999 call-outs

SEVEN homes in the Black Country are among the top 10 private properties with the most amount of ambulance call-outs in the West Midlands.

A property in Tipton had 515 call-outs in the one-year period up to October 31. This was followed by two properties in Wolverhampton which had 506 and 390 call-outs in the same time period respectively. Out of the 515 call-outs to the property in Tipton, 298 involved paramedics being sent, six ended up with a patient being transported for care. For the address in Wolverhampton which had 506 call-outs, 415 resulted in crews being sent to the scene, 45 with a patient being taken to care.

Advice

At the other property in the city which had 390 call-outs, 346 resulted in vehicles being dispatched, 23 seeing a patient being taken in to care. West Midlands Ambulance spokesman Murray McGregor said the figures were 'staggering'.

He said: "When you get large numbers of calls it is because the person calling has not found a route of path for care. We hold meetings with partner agencies in such circumstances to discuss how we can help or advice the patient."

He added: "The numbers are staggering. It is a drain on our resources and not the best way for our call operators to spend their time dealing with repeated calls."

Other private properties in the top 10 properties were addresses in Bilston with 331 call-outs, West Bromwich, 320, Wolverhampton, 279, and Oldbury, 193.

Exact addresses were not given to protect the identity of those involved. West Midlands Ambulance Service deals with around 3,000 emergency calls each day. The service says that 60 per cent of patients end up requiring emergency care, the rest receive advice over the phone or are taken to another service such as a GP or minor injuries unit.

Baby's looking a bit pale

Mother keeps an eye on one of her one-week-old Jackson's Chameleon youngster, at Wild Zoological Park, Bobbington

A CHAMELEON at Wild Zoological Park has given birth to 17 babies. The endangered lizard, named Jacksons, gave birth to the babies including this cub who has just started to emerge from the den.

The mother, Lola, can be seen keeping an eye on her one-week-old youngster. This particular type of chameleon is one of only few species to give birth to live babies rather than laying eggs.

Teams from the park are finding out whether more babies are developing inside of her due to the nature of production. The 17 babies are all healthy. Lola has been at the park for 12 months.

Wild Zoological Park opened in August and is at Halfpenny Green in Bobbington. The park is split into four different regions including Africa, Asia, Australia and America.

Visitors are also given the chance to walk through enclosures alongside Wallabies and Lemurs along with the opportunity to see live shows everyday which feature free flying birds, parrots and other birds of prey. The zoo's Christmas winter wonderland is on December 23. Ticket prices start from £4.

Concern over exclusion policy

COUNCIL bosses in Sandwell have contacted the regional schools commissioner over the number of exclusions at academies.

A total of 105 pupils have been permanently excluded from academy schools in Sandwell over the last two years and children's bosses have flagged up concerns. Academies are not under council control.

Continuous disruption, drug and alcohol abuse, threats to teachers and fellow pupils were among reasons troublemakers were banned. Sandwell Council said it had raised the issue with the schools commissioner.

Permanent exclusion is the most severe form of disciplinary action. Headteachers are advised only to use the measure as a last resort. But figures for 2014/15 showed 44 children were excluded for 'persistent disruptive behaviour'.

Council take action on shops

The shops that Dudley Council have targeted for improvements on Long Lane at Shell Corner DUDLEY Council is taking action over eyesore properties on Long Lane.

A maintenance of land notice has been issued to a group of shops in Shell Corner to clean windows, remove waste and take down old out-of-date signs.

It comes after Councillor Stuart Henley, a representative of Halesowen North ward, complained that the area was blighted by dereliction, litter and crime.

Frontages

The notice, which has been attached to the front of the empty shops, states that the frontages of 303A and 304 Long Lane must have clean windows, frames and cladding along with taking 'all reasonable steps' to clear and remove any waste or litter.

Specifics to 303A, which is the former Tudor Law shop, state: 'Remove all sig-

Council is offering condensation advice

DUDLEY Council is helping residents tackle condensation in their homes with a new advice leaflet and video on its website.

Anyone experiencing such a problem can download an advice leaflet and view a video on the Dudley Council www.dudley.gov.uk website.

Condensation is caused when warm moist air comes into contact with cold air or a cold surface, causing water droplets to form. This is particularly an issue during winter when homes are warmer than outside.

Housing boss Councillor Gaye Partridge said: "Condensation and mould can be a particular problem during the winter months so we produced a leaflet and an video which work hand in hand.

"These items have been produced primarily with council tenants in mind, but are relevant to anyone experiencing condensation in their home."

Two Black Country colleges are ranked among best in country

TWO Black Country colleges have been ranked among the best in the country by apprenticeship and training providers, according to a new report.

Dudley College and Walsall College were rated joint third in the league table by FE Week. The two colleges scored 14 out of 16. Wolverhampton College wasn't far behind after being given a total of 13.

However, it was not such good news for neighbouring Sandwell College - which was placed among the bottom 20 per cent in the same table. Dudley College was helped to its high position thanks to its high employer satisfaction score, which saw 91 per cent of employers rate it highly in meeting their training needs.

Support

It also received a creditable learner satisfaction score - with 86 per cent of students giving the thumbs up to their learning experience at the college.

Principal Lowell Williams said: "Our high level ranking in the college league table is a great achievement as it demonstrates we're doing a top job to support the learners and employers we work with. It's particularly pleasing that other Black Country colleges were in the top five places on the table too, as this shows the further education system across the region is in good shape and responding to the skills challenges we face.

"This ranking is testimony to the great efforts of our staff and our learners. But we will work tirelessly to continue to improve what we do as there's no reason we shouldn't be in first place next time the table is published."

The club follows on from the huge success of a digital festival held at Halesowen Library, which was attended by more than 600. Visitors watched demonstrations of 3D printers and more.

Bright ideas for home as we head into winter

ANTIQUES AND COLLECTIBLES

with John Ridgway of Perry & Phillips

GIVEN the foul weather this week, I thought it would be nice to take a look around our homes and add some seasonal colour to help fight off those winter blues.

And there are all kinds of vintage items you could pick up in the saleroom to help do this, starting with attractive containers for dried flowers, twisted willow, firethorn or foliage that will instantly transform any room into a brighter place.

You can easily pick up some nice pieces at auction, go along to the viewing days and see what you can find – and you won't have to spend too much money.

Look out for prettily decorated china jugs, the taller the better, but make sure you check for cracks to ensure the jug is waterproof if you want it for fresh flowers.

Glass jugs and vases look great and you may be able to pick these up in some lovely autumnal colours, again look out for any cracks or chips before you buy.

Earthenware containers are always nice, large ones are perfect for displays of foliage in halls or sitting rooms, standing on the floor.

China vases in bright colours or featuring attractive designs are ideal for autumnal displays of flowers or foliage, even small ones will cheer up the corner of a room.

Unusual containers also look good, a pretty vintage soup tureen would provide a home for a larger display or a winter indoor plant.

Then think about adding some lamps with colourful shades to provide some much-needed extra light.

Tiffany lamps in particular are especially attractive and you can pick up some nice reproduction ones if you don't want to pay out for originals.

Potpourri is good in vintage bowls and glasses and looks especially nice displayed in layers in old glass vases.

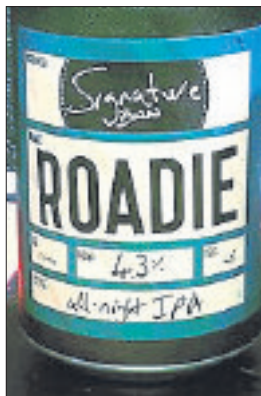

Coloured candles, either standing alone or in groups, also add that extra cheery light, look out for gold and silver ones, and tea-lights can be housed in anything from a tea-cup to a wooden goblet.

You can even make going out in the rain slightly more pleasant by keeping umbrellas in a colourful umbrella stand or vintage plant bowl by your front door (add a Victorian umbrella and a walking stick for effect).

So have a good browse around the saleroom to see what you can find to add that extra seasonal cheer.

Perry and Phillips Auctioneers hold sales of antiques and collectables on the first Tuesday of each month. Valuation days, for sale items only, are held every Wednesday at the Mill Street saleroom in Low Town, Bridgnorth, from 10am until 4pm. The next sale takes place on this Tuesday, December 6, viewing is during the weekend and on the Monday prior to the sale. If you want to bid during the auction and are a new bidder please arrive in plenty of time to register and be allocated a bidding number.

Raising a glass (or mug) to the latest trends

Music and beer: Signature cans

WITH this spell of colder weather we have taken our first autumn walk with a flask of mulled wine in the rucksack, a bit of a tradition and much enjoyed to warm the insides.

There is as much trend and style in what we drink, as what we wear and the popularity of certain drinks wax and wane every year.

Consider our staple coffee and teas, from the basics to the fragrant and flavoured, from the kettle and tea pot to the high street coffee house and the take-away caffeine hit. We have our favourite lattes, cappuccinos, espressos, cooling frappuccinos and herbal infusions.

Even mineral water does not escape the specialist drinks market with 'hint of' fruit flavours, added vitamins and 'free from' all sorts! The shape of the bottle as important as the contents. At a restaurant meal recently we were delivered tap water in a beautiful coloured cooled glass bottle with a metal clamped seal, delightful!

Our need for healthy ingredients leads us to mixing our own fruit and vegetable smoothies, as much a meal and often replacing breakfast or lunch, juicers have also increased in popularity in the kitchen.

STYLE FOCUS

with Janet Timmis

Fruit features strongly in the revival of the alcoholic cocktail, new and old recipes equally popular and now available in foil packets, some of which can be frozen to achieve a crushed ice drink.

The Cider revival continues, with seemingly never ending choice, sparkling, still, clear, cloudy, pear, apple, dark or light. Bulmers, Strongbow and Magners spending considerable amounts on advertising to a welcome market. The choice of spirits and mixers is diverse, many types and varied flavours of gin, vodka and whiskey, some of these products promoted by celebrities such as David Beckham, Haig in its bright blue chunky bottle and Mila Kunis, the face of Jim Beam, and then presented in unusual drinking vessels, dressed with flowers and leaves, sold in elaborate bottles.

Music artists are putting their names to craft beers, getting involved in the creative process and the marketing. One of the breweries doing this is 'Signature Brew' (signaturebrew.co.uk), collaborating with the likes of Professor Green, Frank Turner and Enter Shikari, a great mix of music and beer. Micro breweries and pubs are opening in the smallest of retail units. The Merckx Belgian Bar in Eccleshall is worth a visit (merckxbar.co.uk) we are lucky enough to have Joule's Brewery on our doorstep (joulesbrewery.co.uk)

The choice of wine gets ever bigger, red, white and rose from every country of the world but the vineyards of the UK now produce some beautifully flavoured offerings at reasonable prices. Italian Prosecco becomes the new favourite over Cava and Asti and sweet wines with dessert are worth investigating.

Whatever your alcoholic tipples beware of the alcoholic content, with all the new options it can vary dramatically...Cheers all!

Parents who pay for their children's education may not be making best use of their money, says presenter Martin Lewis

Money misdemeanours may cost you thousands

Money expert Martin Lewis

ARE you a sinner? Financially that is. There are a host of everyday money misdemeanours that millions of people do, costing them thousands, without being aware of it.

These aren't horrors like grabbing a payday loan, but the result of simple misunderstandings, bad habits or inaction. I've collated five of the most common.

1. Savings rates are depressingly low – the top easy-access rate is one per cent. Credit card and other interest rates are depressingly high.

So £1,000 credit card debt at 18 per cent costs it costs you £180 a year, the same amount saved in top paying savings account at one per cent interest only earns you £10. If you had both, pay the debt off with your savings and you'd be £170 a year better off.

Many of you will be thinking, "but I want to keep my savings, what if the boiler packs up or the roof falls in?" However, that's a sentimental strategy, not a logical one.

If you don't pay the debt off with the savings and an emergency happens that cost you £1,000 to fix, you'd use all your savings and still £1,000 of credit card debt.

If you do pay off the debt with the savings, and a £1,000 emergency happens, you'd need to pay for it on your credit card, meaning you still have no savings and £1,000 of credit card debt.

By Martin Lewis

The end result of them both is the same, yet by paying off the debt with the savings, you save in the meantime.

2. Most people in the UK are on their energy firm's standard tariff, which typically means they're overpaying by £300 a year. The best plan is take five minutes to do a full market comparison via my www.CheapEnergyClub.com or any www.Ofgem.gov.uk approved comparison site.

Even if you won't do that, just pick up the phone and ask your current provider "Am I on your cheapest tariff?" and, if not, switch to that as there's no change but the price.

3. Credit card minimum payments are based mostly on a percentage of the balance, which only just covers the interest. So you hardly clear any off.

A 30-year-old with £3,000 debt on a credit card at 17.9 per cent interest, who made only typical minimum repayments, would take 27 years to clear it. By then, they'd be 57 and have paid a total cost £4,000 in interest (see my minimum repayment calc at www.mse.me/minirepay to work out how long it'll take you).

On £3,000 debt, the current minimum is around £70 a month. If instead of opting to pay the minimum, fix your repayment at £70. The debt will clear in five years at a cost of £1,500 in interest, saving £2,400.

Though if you've debt on more than one credit card, focus all spare cash on repaying the most expensive, making only the minimums on the others. That way you get rid of the most expensive debts first.

4. Your house price is the wrong figure, you only need to insure the usually much lower rebuild cost – literally how much it would cost to rebuild your home should it get knocked down. This is often far less than the market value.

5. I'm often freaked out by parents telling me they're saved up so their child won't have to pay tuition fees at uni. Worse, some even extend their mortgage. My problem isn't just that actually it's students', not parents' responsibility to repay this.

All new English full-time students can get a tuition fee loan and a living loan to help pay for uni costs. You're eligible to start repaying in the April after leaving, but only if you earn over £21,000.

Most of course will earn over the threshold. However only high earners will earn enough to repay in real terms what they borrowed within 30 years. For most parents it's better to build up a mortgage deposit.

Council vans are dumped in canal

One of the Dudley Council vans is pulled out of the canal
Picture by Dean Cartwright

THIEVES stole vans used to help the elderly and disabled in Dudley and dumped them in a canal.

The vans were stolen from the Dudley Metropolitan Borough Council depot in Kingswinford on November 11. They ended up in the canal near Cinder Bank roundabout.

Rescue vehicles were called to the towpath to pull the council vans out of the canal. The vans will be useless after having been totally submerged with only a van roof to be seen poking out of the water before they were hauled back onto dry land.

Councillor Qadar Zada, cabinet member for adult social care at the council, said: "This is a senseless and appalling crime, to steal two vans used for transporting equipment to the elderly and disabled."

"I am disgusted that they have targeted the most vulnerable in our community and we take this very seriously."

Motorway projects on right road, says chief

MORE than £600 million worth of motorway projects are making 'real progress', according to the country's top highways executive.

Jim O'Sullivan, chief executive of Highways England, said five major projects – including the improvement of junction 10 of the M6 between Wolverhampton and Walsall – will bring jobs and boost the region's economy.

He made the comments as he gave the opening speech of a two-day Highways UK event at the NEC in Birmingham.

He said: "We are currently delivering more than £15 billion of investment in over 100 major schemes across England that will enhance, renew and improve the network. It's fantastic to see key projects like these in the Midlands making real progress."

Strategic

"The Midlands is at the heart of England's strategic road network and investment in schemes like these benefits the whole country. This region really is the 'Midlands Engine' which drives the country."

He said that planning is set to begin next month for the M6 junction 10 improvements with a public consultation launching in January.

By Rob Gollidge

Construction is set to start in April 2019, finishing in late 2020.

The overhaul will see lanes going over the motorway increase from two to four with bridges rebuilt to ease congestion.

The initial plans are at the design stage but will be revealed early next year. More details will be announced shortly of how people can take part and find out more, he said.

The M6 junction 10 currently experiences significant congestion, particularly during morning and evening rush hours.

Road capacity problems have been identified as one of the main transport issues within the West Midlands Local Transport Plan. Highways England is working with Walsall Council.

WORKS' parties, fairy lights, expectant youngsters writing gift lists, creative school Nativity plays where the wise men are replaced by aliens – it must be Christmas soon.

A time defined by more frenzied family activity than any other celebration on our calendars, stress levels begin to soar from the beginning of November.

But for a special group of people the normal irritating distractions that hinder festivities are magnified. Gift-buying, crowded store check-outs, seemingly ceaseless TV advertising for celebrity-branded perfumes and carols being played in shopping centres all too early, are no more of a problem to them than the rest of us.

For these people, the real 'Ba humbug!' moments are deeply personal – secrets that have been cleverly hidden away for years.

Often feeling foolish at the very thought of a 'confession' they continue every Christmas to stoically endure the celebrations, aching for them to finish soon.

But the truth is, this Christmas could be very different for those countless denture wearers whose teeth are no longer able to function the way they should.

Hidden smiles

The natural harmonious fit that should exist between prosthetics and the soft tissues of the mouth is no longer there and the consequence is at best miserable, but regularly life-changing for worse.

How do I know? For nearly 30 years I've been involved in denture provision and have been responsible for helping to resolve some of the worst-case scenarios ever to present to a dentist.

If you have denture issues and are reading this, chances are I've encountered your denture problem many times.

Poor dentures can steal spontaneity – even the natural response to those Christmas joyous moments can be stifled as laughing can be perilous, with the lower prosthetic tilting and slipping. Sadly, laughing can also present an opportunity for the very worst of 'denture moments' when the prosthetic loses all adhesion.

And as for seasonal colds... coughing is something that, certainly for some, needs to be done

Party food Hell for poor dentures – seeded breads

Ill-fitting dentures and nuts just don't mix

Dry turkey can also be a problem for ill-fitting teeth

Royal icing on Christmas cake – too hard for some

Will it be a difficult denture Christmas?

The heralds of Christmas are all around us – lights, crowds of shoppers and the first flush of works' parties. For most people it all promises to be loads of fun, but for some who wear dentures, the seasonal frivolity is no laughing matter. Principal of the Denture Clinic and North Street Dental and Implant Clinic, STEVEN BURCHELL DipCDT RCS(Eng) GDC 108353, offers a timely message of hope with teeth out. Stifled laughter, smiles hidden behind hands; is this any way to live when an answer can be so close at hand?

There are those too, whose days are strategically planned around the need to replenish dental fixative on their teeth.

Copious supplies are needed, secreted away in handbags, bathrooms, kitchens, cars, pockets, bags and other hiding places.

Just the simple task of eating a Christmas meal can become a hurdle which demands 'must-have' strategies to survive the event.

Do you recognise any of the following?

- The need for plausible excuses to leave the dining table to reload the dental fixative halfway through a meal
- That you must be seated where as few people as possible can see you eating

- Have excuses already in mind for missing out on that hard, royal icing Christmas cake, or Christmas pudding infused with brandy... and nuts

- Ensuring you don't have an extra glass of wine for fear of forgetting those dangerous dentures which seemingly have a mind of their own

- Struggling with sore spots and longing for the meal to end soon. Just too much pain

- Needing to go home early, just to get your teeth out

- Embarrassed by sunken cheeks and pinched lips and looking older than your years because your teeth are orally misplaced

- Ashamed by the aesthetics of your dentures which look like they just don't belong to your face

New dentures ready for Christmas
Don't miss out!

Limited numbers
Traditional prosthetics only

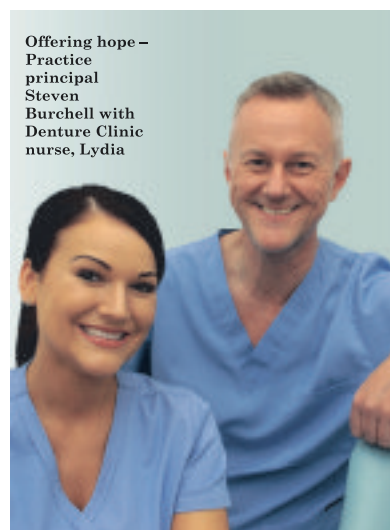

- Simply not wanting to join in the celebrations; always having to find a reason to avoid socialising
- A life ruled by dentures that just don't work – especially where there's party food
- No longer able to enjoy your favourite foods
- Restricted diet and generally a poor nutritional intake on a daily basis

I once heard of a tragic case where a lady in her 80s had lived her whole adult life as a "consummate actress" because of failing false teeth.

She went out only to work, had no social life and rarely spoke to anyone.

She was deeply troubled by her dentures and the issues relating to them eclipsed her life. A complex clinical case, I was privileged to help transform her life for the better many years ago.

She learned to live again in the latter years, making new friends, going to restaurants and stopping for conversations in the street. Her regret – and mine too – that she just accepted her problem. Afraid of the dentist and fearful her appointment with me would disappoint, she suffered in silence.

Pretty Paxos offers haven of calm and relaxation

“LAKKACHATTA swinda lactu,” says my six-year-old daughter Rosie, pencil poised on a notepad.

“Yasi,” comes the reply from her sister Poppy, four, who’s sat at the table. “Ikki tabu.”

It’s a new game they’ve started playing since we landed in sunny Greece. They’re being waitresses and making an effort to grasp the local language.

It’s been 15 years since I last visited this country.

Back then, it was all booze and bathing, but this time I’m here with my family, discovering a land more akin to the one Gerald Durrell wrote about in My Family And Other Animals, when he wished he could give everyone the gift of his wonderful childhood.

After flying into Corfu, we hop on the hydrofoil and bob across the ocean for an hour to pretty Paxos – the smallest of the Ionian Islands, and said to be similar to the Corfu Durrell adored as a child.

With winding roads, gorgeously green plants, an azure sea and villas dotting every corner of the three main villages, it’s clear this is a part of the world that’s made for exploring.

Our villa, Milou, is a grand affair – set off the beaten track at the top of a hill – with nothing surrounding it but a handful of other properties.

The front door opens into an enormous games room, with a very cool, electric blue billiards table. We make downstairs our slumber zone, with a main bedroom leading out to the poolside, and a calming twin room, painted to match Greece’s country colours of blue and white. The kitchen-dining area is spacious, white and welcoming, but we spend most of our days outside.

The infinity pool provides hours of entertainment for the kids – and Daddy, who loves nothing more than drenching them with a running dive-bomb. And the view, looking out towards the Pindus mountains, is enough to take the relaxation factor up a notch or two.

Mind you, there’s a cackle of hysterics as the volume on the docking station reaches ear-piercing levels, belting out club classics in the blazing sunshine. I emerge from the pool to see my husband James throwing some serious shapes, shouting, ‘Pool party’, while our children giggle at his moves and attempt to join in.

We spend our days gorging on Greek salad with fat and furiously red tomatoes, crunchy cucumber, giant lumps of local feta cheese and lashings of olive oil and oregano. And come the evening, James lights the BBQ and cooks the most enormous sausages ever seen, pork and chicken kebabs, giant peppers, and what can only be described as a ‘nine-bar’ of halloumi, all bought in the local shops at Gaïos, the island’s capital, and beautiful Loggos, both just a few miles away. It’s cheap too – we easily buy enough meat to feed us all, with masses of leftovers, for nine Euros at the old-fashioned butcher’s.

A car is essential here. Even just getting supplies for the villa is tricky without wheels. And it means you can explore this beautiful, unspoilt island with ease.

Measuring around a mere eight miles from one end to the other, Paxos doesn’t take long to get around, though roads can be tricky to navigate. We easily get lost amid rural roads, while trying to avoid pedestrians, shush unbelievably excited children and translate Greek road signs. We pass giant pots planted up with cacti, aloe vera and lavender, watched over by gnarly old olive trees, as holey as honeycomb.

We drive past a school with signs warning us that children cross here, but there’s no one to be seen. When compared with overcrowded Corfu, it seems crazy that so few make the extra journey to experience the peace of Paxos.

We find a craggy bit of headland near Lakka, Paxos’ most northerly tip, where giant rocks peer over and stand tall from the sea. I investigate a growing green mass with bulbous, almost pod-like ends, that I’m certain must be edible. I look around to ask someone, but there isn’t a soul to be seen – just the four of us, deserted on our own idyllic coastland.

“It’s like a sunset in the sea,” says Rosie, describing how the ocean changes from clear to turquoise, into azure and navy. And I smile, thinking Durrell would have been pleased with her description. When we return to England’s less sunny shores, I ask if they’d like to holiday in Paxos again. “Yakka chakka!” comes the reply. I’ll take that as a yes.

Decorations and special displays throughout the park

All ready for Christmas at Thomas Land, Drayton Manor

Get into the festive spirit with Thomas and friends

Santa and ‘snow’ at magical theme park

WE’RE usually much later with our annual visit to Santa, squeezing it in the week before Christmas when present lists are finally finalised.

However, this year our family was invited to kick off the festive season early, with a visit to Drayton Manor Theme Park’s Magical Christmas for a special preview.

It may still be November, but we’re now well and truly full of the festive spirit after spending a delightful day with Santa and his reindeer, making presents for meerkats and being covered in ‘snow’.

There was even ice-skating on the indoor Slide & Glide, which delighted eight-year-old Zoe. Although the larger park rides were closed, there was still enough to entertain children of all ages as well as the ‘big kids’.

A highlight for us, with older children, was the Ben 10 Ultimate Mission Rollercoaster. With hardly any queues, it had plenty of use by the four of us. After that, and lunch, the more leisurely pace of the traditional Carousel was appreciated and we were treated to a fantastic 4D cinema experience with the Polar Express, a 15-minute adventure shown throughout the day.

Taking a walk around the zoo, the children were thrilled to see the meerkats and lemur enjoying the ‘presents’ they had made for them at a mini workshop when we arrived. It was lovely to step inside the warmth of the reptile house where many people remarked that the animals appeared much more active than usual – maybe they were all excited by the special visitors from the North Pole. Santa’s reindeer have pride of place at the entrance of the zoo, with their pen decorated with giant baubles. They looked like they were getting plenty of rest before their big job pulling the sleigh on Christmas Eve.

Drayton Manor visitors can see Santa at The Castle of Dreams and we eagerly arrived at our time slot to be greeted by two cheerful elves. Inside the castle, the decorations were beautiful and seeing Santa was just as magical as we had hoped. George, 11, was lost for words as Santa told him to stop arguing with his sister, while Zoe couldn’t stop grinning. With four weeks to go until Christmas, there could be another advantage to visiting Santa so early – if they both keep their promise to be good.

We spent the rest of the afternoon enjoying the rides in Thomas Land, with favourites including the Troublesome Trucks Runaway Rollercoaster and Bertie Bus. This part of the park has undergone a £2.5 million expansion and there is a new two-storey Sodor Airport complex with VIP suites available for private hire.

Thomas Land became a real winter wonderland with flurries of ‘snow’ throughout the day courtesy of a special machine and there were balcony shows where you could meet the characters. There was also plenty of festive music being played and, as it began to get dark, the Christmas lights created the perfect atmosphere. Plenty of pictures were taken by the giant Christmas tree and the day was rounded off with a parade and a dazzling fireworks display.

For us it was a great way to experience the theme park at a time of year we would not normally think of going. And we will be sure to return for the new season in 2017, as each child who visits Santa receives a golden ticket for a free visit.

Just an hour’s drive from Shropshire, the park, near Tamworth, has a selection of packages available for the Christmas period for its four-star hotel. Ticket prices for Drayton’s Magical Christmas including Santa start at £22 per adult and £17 for children and over 60s. Children aged 2-3 cost £12 and under twos are free. There is free entry to both serving and non-serving members of the armed forces. Drayton’s Magical Christmas is open tomorrow (Friday) until Monday and from December 2-5, 9-12, 15-23 and 27-31. Unexpected tip-top destination has plenty of heritage

Pay a visit to Mad O'Rourke's Pie Factory

SPOTLIGHT ON TIPTON

Currency: Pork scratching. GBP is available in some outlets.

Brief overview: In honour of all things Steve Bull, we present to you our finest, most unique and undoubtedly our most unexpected holiday destination – Tipton. It has everything you could possibly need like boxing connections, great chip shops, more pork scratchings than anywhere else in the world, brilliant pubs and more. Viz Comic famously reported that Jesus was born in Tipton – ha, and here’s all us fools imagining he was born in Jerusalem. Oh yes, and Tipton also lent its name to the brilliant Lazy Cow Doreen Tipton, who plans to ape American President Donald Trump by building a wall around the Black Country to keep out illegal Brummies.

Where to stay: While Tipton doesn’t have the same range of hotels as Tokyo or Paris, it offers a number of delightful B&Bs. Expect a full English for breakfast and change from £50.

What to do: The choices are endless. And no, we ay pullin’ ya leg, Tipton is so steeped in history that it has its own Heritage Trail. Visit the Factory Locks, Victoria Park, Tipton Carnegie Centre – which is not to be confused with the Carnegie Hall in New York – or the Cast Iron Roving Bridges, over local canals. Then there’s St John’s Church and St Mark’s Church, The Old Line Canal, Malthouse Stables, The Boat Gauging House and, best of all, The Tipton Slasher statue near to The Fountain Inn. The Slasher, as all Tiptonians know, was a British heavyweight prize fighter in the 19th century and English champion from 1850-57. Alternatively, follow in the footsteps of Black Country legend Steve Bull, whose first school was Wednesbury Oak Primary and who then attended Willingsworth High, where he made a name. Tipton Town’s stadium is opposite Wednesday Oak – and Asda’s just up the road, so you can fill up on fuel if your car’s running low.

What to eat/drink: Scratchings, a pint of Bathams and a bag of chips. Alternatively, pop into Mad O’Rourke’s Pie Factory, the home of Desperate Dan’s Cow Pie and the almost-legendary pint of Lumphammer.

Revellers enjoy a Cheeky night in one-off return

REVELLERS danced the night away as the legendary Cheeky Monkey club night returned to Wolverhampton Civic Hall. Hundreds packed out the dance floor in aid of the one-night only charity special for Compton Hospice.

Once a staple of city nightlife, the famous event featured music from all eras including 70s disco, 80s pop, rock, indie, punk and ska, alongside an eclectic mix of floor fillers.

All three of the original Cheeky Monkey DJs – Marie Falahee, Carrie Weekes and Mel Lewis – got back together for the first time in more than a decade to help raise funds for a charity during the night reunion.

Returns

Partygoer Estelle Perry, aged 39, from Cannock, said: "It was a great night. I went along with two of my old friends from about 15 years ago, Sonia and Charlie. "It was for a great cause at the same time and I really hope they do something similar in the future."

Cheeky Monkey has made a couple of fleeting returns in recent years as part of New Year's Eve events at the Wulfrun Hall. It was announced earlier this year that promoter Dave Travis would be joining forces with the hospice to resurrect the classic club night.

Compton Hospice spokesperson Grace Lee said: "Cheeky Monkey has been missing from Wolverhampton nightlife for over four years. Anyone who has ever attended will tell you what a great time they had."

Deceived encourages drivers to report potential crime involving vulnerable youngsters

Taxi drivers' DVD targets child sexual exploitation

TAXI drivers are attempting to stamp out child sexual exploitation by creating a video highlighting the first signs of danger.

The video, called Deceived, aims to educate drivers and make them aware if they are carrying any vulnerable passengers, and to encourage them to report any possible crime.

Shaz Saleem, chairman of Dudley Private Hire and Taxi Association, wrote, produced and directed the piece with the help of fellow drivers. He said: "This is by far the most important piece of work the association has done."

"Recently, we signed a pledge to tackle this crime but we want our actions to speak louder. The association is committed to ensuring the safety of our customers and we will not shy away from our role."

"Personally I want to thank everyone who has supported Deceived, from the cast to those who have advised and guided us throughout."

Music was created by Falcon Taxis driver, Waqas Rizwan, with the role of the driver played by Amran Hussain from Express Taxis in Halesowen. Lucy is played by Rianna Edwards.

Earlier this year the association created a video to make customers aware of the difference between a private hire car and a Hackney cab as part of its Be Safe Campaign.

West Midlands Police and Crime Commissioner, David Jamieson, said: "The only way to tackle hidden crimes is to bring them out of the darkness into the light and confront them head on."

Angry father commits first ever crime on island

A FATHER from Dudley has become the first person ever to commit a crime on a tiny holy island off the Welsh coast.

The 45-year-old holidaymaker was seen disciplining his 'misbehaving' seven-year-old son at a chocolate factory on Caldey Island, near the popular holiday resort of Tenby, a court in Haverfordwest was told.

The father was seen shouting at the boy before lifting him up by the throat and slapping him on the head, magistrates heard. The father, who cannot be named for legal reasons, admitted assaulting his son after witnesses called the police.

Just 40 monks live on the mile-and-a-half-long island, which is off the Pembrokeshire coast. It is so remote that police had to be carried by lifeboat the two miles to the island to make the arrest. The incident was revealed when the arrested holidaymaker appeared in court on the mainland.

The holy island has a monastery for 18 Cistercian monks and a handful of farmers – but with no criminal activity in living memory. But for the first time in September it recorded a single crime of violence, which led to the Black Country father appearing before Haverfordwest Magistrates Court, where he admitted assault.

Mr Dennis Davies, prosecuting, said other shocked visitors told police how the incident took place as they stood outside the chocolate factory on the island, which attracts boat loads of tourists.

Shouting

He said: "The man was said to be shouting at the boy before lifting him up with an outstretched arm by the throat, before putting him down, slapping him on the back of the head and frog marching him away."

The court heard a visitor shouted 'that's child abuse,' at the father. Police were called to the island to arrest the 45-year-old.

He told police his son was 'being naughty and wouldn't listen' – and almost fell down some steps.

Mr Davies said: "He told police that in no way did he intend to hurt him but accepted that he had been unreasonable. He explained that his son had ADHD and was on the autistic spectrum."

Mr Mike Kelleher, defending, said: "The boy doesn't like crowds and queuing, and doesn't see danger as others do."

"The father said his son was misbehaving and running up and down the steps, and he was concerned he would hurt himself or others. The father is deeply upset and didn't want to hurt his son."

The man was released on bail while reports are prepared.

Before the assault, official crime statistics have recorded a zero for Caldey Island for anti-social behaviour, theft, burglary, arson, drugs, public order, vehicle crime, robbery and possession of offensive weapons.

The island, which has a population of 40, has had a monastery for more than 1,500 years. The monks observe a vow of silence between 7pm and 7am, outside usual hours tourists can reach the island. The monks were described as being concerned by the assault.

200 officers to be taken on to tackle cyber crime menace

WEST Midlands Police will take on 200 officers to tackle cyber crime. The recruits will be in addition to 800 new officers set to join the force by 2020.

Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson has made tackling cyber crime one of his key priorities over the next four years as part of his police and crime plan.

Mr Jamieson said cyber crime, such as fraud and terrorism, was one of the biggest challenges facing the force today. Increasing reports of 'hidden crimes', such as domestic violence and child sexual exploitation, and greater support for victims are also key targets.

Mr Jamieson said: "This plan will make sure we crack down on traditional crimes and continue to protect the public from threats like cyber crime, child sexual exploitation and domestic abuse. The recruitment of 200 specialist staff will enable that."

Roles

At the end of August, the force announced it would take on more than 1,100 new police officers, PCSOs and other staff in its biggest recruitment drive for six years.

The force, which has lost nearly one fifth of its officers since Home Office police cuts started in 2010, said it would take on 1,150 new starters over the next three years.

The posts include 800 new PCs, 200 specialist staff in a range of roles, such as investigators, and 150 PCSOs.

The force, which has lost nearly one fifth of its officers since Home Office police cuts started in 2010, will take on 1,150 new starters over the next three years. From September 2009 up until September 2015 WMP's workforce has reduced from 8,694 to 7,043 – a cut of 1,651 staff.

A good scheme allows you to instantly reinvent a space

WINTER may be bleak and dark, but it's the perfect time to switch on to the power of lighting and illuminate rooms with everything, from razzle-dazzle new effects to simple bulbs which shine a spotlight on a feature, or even change a mood.

"Lighting really matters in a home and can literally transform it," promises George Clarke, architect and TV's popular property presenter of George Clarke's Amazing Spaces and The Restoration Man.

"I've seen great buildings ruined by bad lighting schemes, and great lighting improve bad buildings. It can truly make that much difference.

"What's fantastic these days, is that there are affordable, effective ways of personally tailoring lighting schemes, using technology like smart phones and tablets, which a decade ago, would have costs thousands."

Clarke, who's currently working with Philips lighting, believes good lighting doesn't just have a visual effect, but can also help improve our wellbeing.

"Artificial light can now mimic natural light and light systems can be programmed to suit our body rhythms.

By Gabrielle Fagan

evening can help people relax and encourage relaxation and sleep, while gradually increasing light levels in the morning to mimic sunrise can encourage us to wake in a more gentle fashion.

"Lights conjuring the effect of natural sunlight indoors may offset the negative effect of a grey day outside. There's almost no limit to what can be achieved."

Brightness

Recent research by B&Q revealed that 85% of us have no idea which bulb brightness is best to suit a task or set a mood. Clarke gives his guide to LED lighting...

"In general, people are scared by lighting and confused by all the terminology.

"That's a real shame because LED lighting is so versatile these days. For instance, there's a misconception that it's a cold light, but the key to success is selecting the right colour temperature of the bulb, which is measured in a unit called a kelvin (k)," he explains. "Bulbs with higher kelvin value create a cooler, crisp white light (4000k) which are suitable for practical areas, like a kitchen or bathroom, while those with a lower kelvin value (3000k) produce a warmer white light more appropriate for living rooms.

"If you want to easily change the ambience, there are innovations like a Philips Scene Switch LED light bulb (£9.99, Amazon) which allows you to use your light switch to flick between three different light levels, from bright to natural to a soft warm light. This bulb can be used on an existing light [simply using your normal light switch to change between settings] and removes the need for a dimmer."

"A common mistake people make is only having light coming from one source - for instance, simply having a ceiling light. In reality, good lighting is achieved by creating different layers of light which conjure variation, texture and atmosphere," says Clarke. "Clever accent lighting - wall scones, floodlights, recessed lights or track lighting - can dramatically change a space and highlight key areas or architectural features. Even just hanging an adjustable pendant light over a dining table will define the space and make it feel more intimate. Coloured lighting is also a fantastic way to add a 'wow' factor, especially if the light source is hidden. Use coloured light strips above kitchen units, but, to get the maximum effect, keep the background a neutral white as a contrast."

SEE THE LIGHTS: Nothing makes more of a statement than an intricately designed chandelier and, for a modern approach, fit one in an unexpected place like a kitchen or a bedroom. Debenhams has an impressive lighting collection with the added bonus that many pieces are currently reduced online. A Scarlett Black Chandelier, with smoke and clear glass crystal strands, is reduced from £395 to £316, and a Penelope Pendant Ceiling Light, featuring layers of smoke glass cylinders, reduced from £320 to £256. Cluster lights are ultra-fashionable and its contemporary Harrison Cluster Ceiling Light is down from £150 to £120.

Very's Glass Cloche Ceiling Light, £99, blends modern with traditional style, with a clear glass dome showcasing a cluster of light strings, and another winner in its collection is a Forest Pendant with etched tree design, £19.

Dar Lighting, which has nationwide stockists, has super pendant lights and I particularly like its Tower Cluster Pendant, RRP £118.80. Pared-back designs allow materials to shine and B&Q's Jonas Wire Copper Pendant Ceiling Light, £47, is a good example of that approach. Urban Cottage Industries, specialists in vintage and industrial lighting, which offers bespoke lights, has a funky Green Large Balloon Light Bulb Cage, from £55.44. Experiment with coloured light with a Philips Hue LED Iris Light Colour Changing Mood Smart Lamp, £70, B&Q.

TRICK OF THE LIGHT

"Lighting should be flexible, so you can zone different areas and alter light levels to change mood, atmosphere or focus it to better suit a specific activity," says Clarke. "A good scheme allows you to instantly reinvent a space - or, in increasingly popular open-plan living rooms, the areas within the space - without having to change a room's overall layout.

"There are so many ways to draw the eye. Bare bulbs are very much on-trend, as are metallic finishes and sculptural shapes. Table lights are a really good way to partition areas in a room, so a light on a side table behind a sofa will create a visual break in an open plan room.

"Do bear in mind colours and surfaces reflect and absorb light in different ways. Shiny materials like satin, silk and metal bounce light around a room, whereas darker, denser materials, such as wool and velvet, soak up light."

SEE THE LIGHTS: Show off your style credentials with lights inspired by the gaudy stars of the fairground. The fun Marquee collection at Debenhams has a selection: Flamingo Light, £150; Burst Star and Rainbow Floor Lights, both currently reduced online from £150 to £120; Lightening Bolt Floor Light, down from £95 to £76, and Cactus Floor Light, currently reduced from £125 to £100.

Laura Ashley's Odiham Antique Brass Desk Lamp, currently £87.50, down from £125, is a classic and its matching Sphere Pendant Light is £122.50. Adjustable lights are super-useful and Marks & Spencer's Loft Adjustable Task Floor Lamp, £99, has a matching Table Lamp, £45.

Christmas kicks off with festival at cone

CHRISTMAS has arrived at a popular attraction in the Black Country which held a two day festival showcasing arts and crafts.

Visitors flocked to the Red House Glass Cone, at Wordsley, for the festive event at the weekend.

The newly opened White House Cone also joined in and hosted a number of craft stalls at its site across the road from the Red House Glass Cone.

As well as a craft market, visitors also had the chance to attend a teenage market, visit studios and the gift shop and watch glassmaking sessions.

There was also a Walking in a Winter Wonderland exhibition at the attraction, featuring work by local artists. "Everyone enjoyed the festival and it was a welcome start to Christmas," said Sarah Hall, visitor services manager at the glass cone.

Santa will be visiting the cone on December 10 and 11, and 17 to 23 from 10am until 3.30pm. Book a visit on (01384) 812381 or 815571, £7.90 per child.

Patients' records destroyed

The fire destroyed industrial units in Wolverhampton, including an archive

HUNDREDS of patients' medical records have been destroyed following an arson attack at an archives site, it has been revealed.

Historical paper data from Felton Lane surgery in Halesowen was destroyed in the fire that saw four industrial units in Wolverhampton gutted on October 20.

In a letter sent to patients, it was stated that "records were transferred to the site on the Clearwater Industrial Estate, on Ettingshall Road, in 2015. Those premises were being destroyed by a major fire with 'total loss of all historical paper data'.

The 'unprecedented event' is now being investigated by Dudley Clinical Commissioning Group, Clinical Governance and West Midlands Fire Service.

Caroline Brunt, chief nurse at Dudley CCG, said: "The loss of Felton Lane Practice patient records in the recent fire has been reported as a serious incident and managed appropriately by the surgery staff.

"The protection of a patient's record is taken very seriously, however, we recognise that unpredictable events happen. Any losses of records are investigated to learn lessons."

Body cams for 999 medics are considered after attacks increase

AMBULANCE chiefs are considering whether to provide staff with body cameras after the number of attacks on paramedics in the Black Country and Staffordshire surged in the past six months.

A report by the West Midlands Ambulance Service revealed there were 57 assaults on staff in the Black Country and 35 in Staffordshire in the six months from April to September.

This compared to 89 in the Black Country and 29 in Staffordshire across the whole of the previous year.

In 2014/15, there were 70 assaults in the Black Country and 29 in Staffordshire.

It shows the number of attacks for the six-month period have risen to almost the level which had previously been seen in a whole year.

The figures also showed the attackers made no distinction between male and female medics. In fact, in the Black Country more female staff were attacked than their male colleagues during the six-month period.

A total of 29 women were assaulted, one more than the number of men.

In October, an ambulance on a 999 call was targeted by yobs who hurled food at the windshield from a West Bromwich bridge.

That came after two paramedics were allegedly threatened inside an ambulance in July as they responded to a call in Portobello, Willehall.

A TEENAGER banned from driving deliberately crashed into a stationary car in Quinton, knocking over the motorist who had just got out.

The road rage incident came just five days after Shakeel Janjua, from Netherton, stole a car at gunpoint.

Janjua has been locked up for five years, following his appearance at Wolverhampton Crown Court.

Janjua careered into the parked Vauxhall Insignia sending sales manager Ivan Trebinski, 61, flying. Mr Trebinski had tailed the 19-year-old from Halesowen High Street to Clydesdale Road in Quinton, after he had been cut up by an Astra driven by Janjua on July 2 last year.

Mr Paul Spratt, prosecuting, told the court: "Mr Trebinski was about to walk over to remonstrate over the driving of the other motorist after both cars stopped when the Astra suddenly sped away."

The victim told police: "It was driven directly at me, hitting the front of my vehicle." He was standing alongside the Insignia and was knocked down as a result of the collision.

Injured

Janjua drove off leaving the dazed sales manager with an injured shoulder before causing £500 damage to a Renault Clio when he crashed into it at a nearby traffic island.

The defendant had stolen a £1,500 Seat Leon on June 27, which was being sold by Faizal Mahmood at Bordesley Green. He had threatened Mr Mahmood with a gun, later accepted as an imitation firearm, telling him he would be shot if he tried to stop the vehicle being taken during a viewing.

The Seat Leon was dumped soon afterwards after an accident.

Janjua was arrested on July 3 and bailed pending further inquiries but on May 29 this year was seen speeding in a stolen Vauxhall Meriva on false plates after it was stolen in a car key burglary five days earlier.

The defendant twice smashed into a pursuing police car in a bid to escape after racing along the Hagley Road in Quinton at almost three times the 30mph limit shortly before 2am. He also went through red lights and drove the wrong way round a traffic island before the front tyre came off and, going at 30mph, he hurtled into a second police car that was blocking the road.

Janjua ran off but was caught while attempting to climb a fence. He had two bags of cannabis and a knife on his person.

Mr Gurdeep Garcha, defending, said: "He has foolishly made some very grave mistakes."

Janjua from Knowle Hill Road, pleaded guilty to robbery, possession of an imitation firearm, assault, dangerous driving and possession of both cannabis and a knife.

He was jailed by Judge Nicholas Webb who told him: "You used a vehicle as a weapon but fortunately no serious injury was caused."

Sit Down and get up for James gig

Tim Booth, centre, as James play one of the festival dates that have made them perennial British rock scene favourites

MANCHESTER indie rock heroes James are in concert at Wolverhampton Civic Hall on Wednesday, following their most successful year since the band reunited in 2007.

The festival favourites fronted by Tim Booth, who first got together in 1982, have won a loyal legion of fans with such rock anthems as Sit Down, Come Home, Sound and She's A Star.

The band's latest album, Girl At The End Of The World, went straight into the UK album charts at no2, second only to Adele.

Glastonbury

In a career yielding 14 studio albums, the group has sold more than 12 millions albums worldwide and have become regulars on the festival circuit, including V and this year's Glastonbury.

Yorkshire-born frontman Booth, a former Shrewsbury School pupil, is now based in California. "We moved here to take some of that Californian laid back optimism," says Booth. "It's starting to seep in. It takes a while to get over the more wired English edginess that is still probably with us."

'I'm always pushing myself as an artist'

Encore for Roachford

ANDREW Roachford arrived on the UK music scene in the late 1980s with the hits Cuddly Toy and Family Man as the linchpin of the band that carried his surname.

Raised in south London to West Indian parents, he was born into a musical family and first hit the road at the age of 14 gigging with his jazz saxophonist uncle Bill Roachford.

"I was in the middle of that whole jazz scene which was an interesting education," he says. "It taught me musically, how to listen and how to entertain. My uncle always told me that you had to give people a show."

Signed to a seven-album deal with Columbia Records, Roachford went on to become that record label's biggest selling domestic act for more than ten years.

Andrew Roachford also became an in-demand songwriter for such as Michael Jackson and Chaka Khan.

Recent years have seen him writing and singing on top selling dance tracks and touring with Mike And The Mechanics.

"I'm always pushing myself as an artist," he says. "When it comes to songwriting, I naturally gravitate to digging deep. That's how it works for me."

His latest album, Encore, was released in the summer and his latest single was a funk-up version of Bill Withers soul classic Ain't No Sunshine.

Roachford is in concert at Bilston's Robin 2 venue on Tuesday. Support comes from Birmingham singer-songwriter Rosie O'Sullivan.

Civic in comedy heroes hat-trick

IT'S a big week for comedy with Catherine Tate following up her show at the Barclaycard Arena last night (Wednesday) by bringing such characters as Nan Taylor, Georgie Georgie and, if she can be bothered, sulky teenager Lauren Cooper to Wolverhampton Civic Hall tomorrow (Friday). She will be assisted by Gavin & Stacey actor Mathew Horne.

Gag-machine Jimmy Carr brings his 'Best of, Ultimate, Gold, Greatest Hits Tour' to the Civic for consecutive nights on Saturday and Sunday. The Last Leg regular Josh Widdicombe completes a comedy hat-trick for the Civic on December 8.

Keep Dancing with Louis and Robin

STRICTLY speaking it's not officially endorsed by a certain Bebb ballroom blockbuster, but fans of fancy movers may well enjoy Keep On Dancing at New Alexandra Theatre from Tuesday to Saturday, December 10.

The Birmingham venue hosts a latin and ballroom dancing spectacular featuring 2012 Strictly Come Dancing winner and Olympic gymnast Louis Smith. Among the professional dancers is former Strictly favourite Robin Windsor.

With guest singers between the jives, tangos and salsas, the show is from the same team behind hit shows Spirit Of The Dance and Puttin' On The Ritz.

Jam packed with hits at the Robin

MORE than a tribute band, From The Jam featuring original Jam bassist Bruce Foxton will play all his former band's singles, including B sides, at the Robin 2 in Bilston on Saturday night.

Other key gigs include Brum shoegazers Jaws back home in Digbeth at the Rainbow Warehouse tomorrow (Friday).

Heavy metal outfit Bullet for My Valentine focus on new album Venom at the O2 Academy, Birmingham, on Tuesday, returning the following night to perform 2005 album The Poison. Influential rockers Pixies have sold out O2 Academy on Thursday, December 8.

NCIS: New Orleans (Channel 5, 8pm)
Last week, Merri Brody appeared to fall for the man that mothers warn their daughters about, the one that is too good to be true. Homeland Security Agent John Russo, who was part of the investigation when Brody tracked evidence in the death of an Army general back to Washington DC, set up shop in New Orleans, giving him a cover for his drug smuggling operation. In tonight's explosive season two finale, the NCIS team are partnered with Homeland on the case of a murdered Navy diver, and there are implications that indicate a link to a terrorist attack on the Big Easy. Percy eventually finds some of those explosives that are wired and ready to blow. But can she work quick enough to defuse the bomb?

7.00 Strictly Come Dancing. The five remaining couples bring a taste of Broadway to the studio, as Musicals Week arrives in the ballroom. The lyrical extravaganza gets under way as the presenters and judges join the contestants on the dance floor for the opening number. However, the more pressing matter of this week's competitive performances quickly overtakes proceedings, as the pro-celebrity duos seek to dazzle judges Len Goodman, Darcey Breazley, Craig T. Nelson and Bruno Tonioli with routines from hit shows. With the final looming ever closer, the pressure is on. As always, once the dances are complete, voting lines will open, giving members of the public a chance to have their say on this evening's performances.

Duo look to hit all the right notes Together

Michael Ball and Alfie Boe. At first glance, it looks like an odd pairing. Both of them have hugely successful careers, so why would they team up? Why not carry on going it alone and take sole credit for all their achievements?

Well, as they say, two's company. Being on the road is lonely, so having somebody with you who understands the rigours involved is probably rather pleasant. This duo also seem to enjoy the banter that can ensue.

During their recent gigs, they have poked fun at the drama surrounding the US Presidential election. Admittedly, it's not exactly high-class satire, but it's an awful lot more interesting than just some bloke standing there belting out a big tune.

Both Ball and Boe are noted for their vocal talents and charisma, but they're not the huge egos that some stars tend to be, which is probably another reason why they work together so well. They have an easy charm and common touch that appeals to people of both sexes and all classes.

Their detractors claim they are both too cheesy for their own good – although with millions of record sales between them, you could argue that their demeanours have worked a treat for them so far. Besides, neither of them seem to care – in fact, there's even a sense of ironic self-awareness within their performances.

Boe and Ball have recently released a joint album, which is rather obviously titled Together, and now they appear to be joined at the hip, having appeared on the Strictly Come Dancing results show a few weeks back; they're also touring the nation as we speak.

But now they're heading for a TV near you courtesy of this one-off programme.

"We've got an album, we've got a tour and now we've got an ITV special," says Ball. "You can't get better than that. We have some great material to share with the viewers; I can't wait to get started."

Boe adds: "We had such a laugh making the album, making our own

TV show is going to be great. Make sure you tune in for some special performances."

The boys' album features their own unique takes on such classic tunes as For Once in My Life, When You Wish Upon a Star and You'll Never Walk Alone. On tour they've added the likes of Ain't That a Kick in the Head and Tell Me It's Not True.

Expect at least some of those to appear here, alongside a medley of songs from Les Miserables.

Joining them on stage will be singer-songwriter Rick Astley as well as Olivier Award-winning performer Maria Friedman, who counts appearances in Chicago, Ragtime and Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat on her resume, although most viewers will recognise her from her stint as Elaine Peacock in EastEnders.

It promises to be wonderful night of entertainment, and just remember – two is better than one, which means we should get double the fun from this duo.

Ball and Boe: One Night Only, Friday, ITV, 9pm

BEST OF THE REST

MONDAY

Brits Icon – Robbie Williams
ITV, 9pm

Elton John and David Bowie. What they have in common? They're legends, of course. Bona fide superstars whose songs have become classics; they're also the only two previous winners of the Brit Icon award. Adding his name to that list is Robbie Williams. Now, we don't want to criticise the Robster, but few would regard him quite so highly as the aforementioned duo, and therefore might suggest that he doesn't deserve to be regarded alongside such luminaries. However, he's won more Brit awards than anybody else in history – 18 in total, if you count the five he won with Take That and his Icon trophy. To celebrate, Williams plays a special gig featuring highlights from new album The Heavy Entertainment Show, as well as a few old favourites, and there's a look back at archive footage from throughout his music career.

TUESDAY

This Is Us
Channel 4, 9pm

Do you believe in star signs? If not, this new drama series may leave you wondering if your date of birth does have some influence over your life after all, as it explores the interweaving existences of a variety of individuals who share the same birthday – and more besides. In the first episode, Jack is determined that his wife Rebecca should celebrate her birthday, even if she is a bit preoccupied with the fact that she's pregnant with triplets. Meanwhile, Randall marks his special day by tracking down his absent father, and sitcom star Kevin and his twin sister Kate are dealing with personal crises of their own. The impressive ensemble cast includes Mandy Moore, Milo Ventimiglia and Sterling K Brown, who recently won an Emmy for The People v OJ Simpson.

WEDNESDAY

ITV, 9pm

New series. Drama series set in 1955 based on the true story of Lanarkshire detective William Muncie's quest to bring to justice notorious Scottish killer Peter Manuel. With Manuel having being released from prison after a nine-year sentence for housebreaking and sexual assaults, he attacks a young woman and keeps her with him in an open field for most of the night before returning to his home, and Muncie is convinced further crimes are certain to be committed.

Big Life Fix with Simon Reeve

New series. Simon Reeve and a team of inventors try to help people in need, creating solutions to everyday problems, beginning with a terminally ill photographer who can no longer use his hands to operate a camera. They attempt to bring cutting-edge technology to a remote Welsh village which has no internet access and an unreliable telephone connection, and give some control back to a young designer who has Parkinson's disease and who has been unable to use a pen since developing tremors in her hands two years ago.

Brits Icon – Robbie Williams, Monday, ITV, 9pm

on George Clarke's Amazing Spaces territory this week, as he turns his attention to five properties which have made clever use of small sites. Among the places in the running for the title of House of the Year 2016 is an ultra-stylish one bedroom space for living and working, which boasts an experimental garden roof. Kevin discovers how a dark mews has become a light and airy home, visits a Dungeness house that combines beach living with high architecture, and calls in on a particularly ingenious extension in Harrogate. He also learns how a narrow beachfront garage has made over into a stunning house with enough room for an extensive art collection.

FRIDAY

Friday Night Supper Club
Channel 4, 11.55pm

No, this is not a spin-off from the popular sitcom Friday Night Dinner. Instead, it's a competition between six of Britain's hottest chefs, who go head-to-head in a post-pub showdown. Alex Szrok, Imran Bashir, Elizabeth Allen, Andrea Michelin, James Cochran and Lee Tiernan are the culinary geniuses taking part, and they'll be whipping up tasty, inventive new dishes that can be easily replicated by using everyday staple ingredients, including chicken, beef and rhubarb.

Glorious – the nave at York Minster

Just my cup of tea – there's nowt better than York for a city break

By Leon Burakowski

THE ancient capital of northern England was known to the Romans as Eboracum, to the Vikings as Jorvik. But we know it as York, an historic city that has remained vibrant and fashionable.

It is one of Britain's great city break destinations with something for everyone – whether a history buff, a shop-til-you-drop consumer or a connoisseur of good pubs and quality restaurants.

The foremost must-see sight is the colossal York Minster. It is 500 feet long, 100 feet wide with a central tower 200 feet high. Taking more than 250 years to build, it first opened for worship more than 500 years ago. It is the largest medieval gothic cathedral north of the Alps and the magnificent edifice is more than matched by a glorious interior with impressive stained glass windows.

Nearby is the Shambles with its medieval half-timbered buildings tilting towards each other. It is said to have inspired Harry Potter's Diagon Alley. It is the most famous street in a city that has a labyrinth of snickelways and ginnels, passages best experienced when darkness falls and you can join one of several ghost walks.

There are more than three kilometres of city walls to explore or take a boat trip on the River Ouse. You can spend days delving into the past at the Yorkshire, York Castle or National Railway museums. Experience 10th century life at Jorvik Viking Centre with its costumed inhabitants.

For those with a sweet-tooth, York's Chocolate Story tells of the city's famous confectionery families, Craven, Terry and Rowntree, with tastings.

A trip to York is not complete without visiting Bettys, a Yorkshire institution. The uniformed staff serve a range of teas in the proper old fashioned way. The formidable afternoon tea has three tiers of delicious savoury sandwiches, scones with jam and cream, and array of divine cakes. Tea in the elegant art deco surroundings of the cafe tea-rooms on St Helen's Square is a treat – and you can take home a packet of Bettys own special tea blend.

Just a short drive from the city is Castle Howard, familiar from TV and film as the home of the Flytes in Evelyn Waugh's Brideshead Revisited. It is one of the finest stately homes in Britain. The monuments on the road to the mansion declare you are approaching somewhere special.

Built in the 1700s by Sir John Vanbrugh for the Earl of Carlisle and his family, the Howards, it is full of antiquities and artworks that the Howards brought to their palace in the hills. The Great Hall is breathtakingly impressive. The informative exhibition reveals that the Howards had lives every bit as dramatic as the Flytes.

Moors

North Yorkshire Moors Railway steams through forests and heathlands from the market town of Pickering to the old fishing port of Whitby. Harry Potter fans may recognise the remote station Goathland as Hogsmeade, station for Hogwarts.

Whitby is famous for its gothic abbey ruins, where Count Dracula took refuge on arrival in England in Bram Stoker's novel. Thus it is a magnet for goths who explore the graveyard of St Mary's, where the headstones of long dead mariners have weathered into coral-like patterns. It's 199 steps down to the town to buy the local Jet black jewellery or visit the house where explorer Captain Cook learned his craft. Whatever you do, don't leave Whitby without enjoying a fish and chip supper. There's nowt better.

FACT FILE

When planning a trip to York see www.visitthecityofyork.org website. Popular and versatile SUV – 2008

By James Parker

The recently revised new Peugeot 2008 SUV that arrived in UK showrooms in the summer is in strong demand with over 40,000 existing UK customers and 500,000 produced since launch in 2013. The appetite for this model continues to rise, with sales in the first half of 2016 up 16 per cent, with 99,900 units sold worldwide.

The latest Peugeot 2008 SUV has recently been updated, with refreshed styling and featuring an enhanced specification.

Enhanced

It has an even more assertive and appealing SUV design, including visual features to give it an enhanced presence; new wheel arch extensions (from Allure level), while a new vertical front grille and front and rear scuff plates (also from Allure level) confirm its robustness and are designed for everyday use.

The new 'Ultimate Red' colour further epitomises the power and desirability of the new 2008 SUV.

The Access A/C, Active and Allure levels are complemented by the new 'GT Line' model. This desirable trim level is already a very popular choice on other key Peugeot models (108, 208, 308 and 508), and adds a sporty theme throughout.

The Peugeot i-Cockpit® is unique to the Brand and embodies the driving characteristics of the Peugeot 2008 SUV, being agile, intuitive and safe.

The compact sports steering wheel offers precise steering and improved

Suzy Richards receives an award for Run for Joel, which was nominated again

Albion prospect Jonathan Leko was on the shortlist

Bethan Rees of Stafford Athletics Club was another up for the Aspiring Talent title

Sporting heroes listed for community awards

SPORTING FEATURE

By Matt Maher

"The standard is always high in the West Midlands Community Sport Awards, but this year it has been particularly difficult to select a shortlist."

through into the Baggies first team early last season. Stafford Athletics Club's javelin star Bethan Rees and Darlaston boxer Benjamin Whittaker were also among the nominees.

Nominated in the Community Club Award was Stourbridge-based Mums on the Run, a group which aims to get mothers active while raising money for charity. They were honoured at the Black Country Sport & Physical Activity Awards, which were presented by Olympic gymnast Kristian Thomas.

Also recognised is Run for Joel, a fundraising event held in the memory of Tunisia terror attack victim Joel Richards. Attracting more than 1,000 participants when it took place at Sandwell Valley Country Park in September, it has been nominated for the Community Project Award and was also honoured at the Black Country Sport & Physical Activity Awards. Cannock-based Real Girls were shortlisted for the same category.

Sally-Ann Chambers, head coach at Tipton-based Midrange Netball Club, was one of six nominees for community coach of the year. Akil Maylor, from Wolverhampton's Rise Up Yoga, was nominated in the Power of Sport Award, which recognises an individual whose life has been significantly improved or changed thanks to a more active lifestyle.

The awards are organised by six county sports partnerships across the region. Chris Child, chairman of the WMCSA and chief executive of Energize Shropshire, Telford & Wrekin, said: "The standard is always high in the West Midlands Community Sport Awards, but this year it has been particularly difficult to select a shortlist."

"These awards are not just about recognising the best sporting talent – although there are some notable achievements across the finalists including Paralympic medals, national and world championships. Instead, they are designed to showcase the dedication and commitment shown by so many people in order to help make a difference through the power of sport."

"All of the finalists have already been named as winners in their own local County Sports Partnership awards and they can be incredibly proud to have made the final shortlist."

Nominees were: Community Club Award: Coundon Court FC, Ellesmere College Titans Swimming Club, Stourbridge Mums On The Run, Tamworth Boxing Club, Women's Boxing Club (Birmingham), Worcester Netball Club.

Community Project Award: Be Active (Telford), Big Birmingham Bikes, Engage! (Coventry), Run For Joel (Black Country), Real Girls (Cannock), The Core Skate (Hereford).

Community Coach of the Year: Alan Birchler (Ellesmere College Titans Swimming Club), Sally-Ann Chambers (Midrange Netball Club, Tipton), Job King (Coventry Wheelchair Racing Club), Jason Lowe (Women's Boxing Club, Birmingham), David Rigby (Kingsgrove Cricket Club), Mark Stowe (Worcester Swimming Club).

Aspiring Talent Award: Jonathan Leko (West Bromwich Albion), Georgina Mitchell (Modern Pentathlete From Warwick), Rebecca Radford (Worcester Swimming Club), Bethan Rees (Stafford Athletics Club), Adam Summers (Astons Kickboxing Academy, Shrewsbury), Benjamin Whittaker (Firewalker Boxing Club, Darlaston).

Power of Sport Award: Liv Boucher (Run Like A Girl, Warwick), Darren Ford (Inclusively Fit Project), Youssef Khaira (O'Dell's Amateur Boxing Club, Birmingham), Akil Maylor (Rise Up Yoga, Wolverhampton), Ian Nash (Redditch Boxing Club).

BBC Midlands Sports Unsung Hero Award: Richard Brough (Handsworth Grammar School Old Boys Water Polo), David Finney (The Bridge Swimming Club, Redditch), Keith Hardy (Wyrley Juniors FC).

Unsung hero – Wyrley Juniors chairman Keith Hardy

A LONG-serving junior football club chairman and a teenage Premier League star were among the nominees for the West Midlands Community Sports Awards taking place this week.

Taking place at Villa Park last night (Wednesday), the awards were set up with the goal of recognising sports clubs, projects and individuals making a difference in their community.

The highlight was the BBC Midlands Sport Unsung Hero category with Keith Hardy, the chairman of Wyrley Juniors, one of three nominated for the prize.

Hardy was selected alongside Richard Brough, from Handsworth Grammar School Old Boys Water Polo and David Finney from Redditch's Bridge Swimming Club. The winner will be given the chance to win the national unsung hero prize at the BBC Sports Personality of the Year awards in Liverpool.

Formed in 1982, Wyrley Juniors are one of the biggest junior set-ups in the country, fielding more than 60 teams, both male and female, in a variety of age groups.

Recognition

Hardy has played a huge role in the club's success and is delighted to see the Juniors, who were the FA's Community Club of The Year in 2011, receive further recognition.

"I was shocked, first of all when I found out I had been nominated," he said. "And then pleasantly surprised. I am pleased because it is recognition for the club and what it has achieved over the past 30-odd years. No-one who is involved in grassroots football is in it for personal awards, it's all about the development of the kids and the club."

Albion striker Jonathan Leko was up for the Aspiring Talent Award. The 17-year-old, originally from the Democratic Republic of Congo, made his break-

Glassboys put visitors to the sword

Stourbridge 5 Workington 0
SUPERB Stourbridge warmed up for the FA Cup clash with Northampton this weekend by putting five past Workington – with all goals coming in the first 27 minutes.

Dangerman Matt Dodd was at the heart of Stourbridge's early onslaught and soon made his presence felt when he cut inside Workington defender Gari Rowntree and was tripped as he raced through on goal.

Referee Sarah Garratt had no hesitation in pointing to the penalty spot and the league's leading marksman Luke Benbow duly slotted home.

Further chances went begging before Stourbridge made it 2-0 on 15 minutes. Dodd left three Workington players trailing in his wake before picking out Jordan Archer with a pinpoint cross to head home his first Glassboys goals.

It was 3-0 on 20 minutes when Jack Duggan headed Leon Broadhurst's free-kick against the underside of Workington's crossbar. The ball bounced down and was partially cleared straight back to Duggan who fired home at the second attempt.

The dynamic Dodd set up a fourth goal just three minutes later, cutting through a beleaguered defence and crossing for the unmarked Kayelden Brown to convert at the far post.

Stourbridge struck a fifth goal on 27 minutes when Broadhurst lobbed a sublime pass over Workington's defence for Benbow to bury home a spectacular goal with a first-time volley.

Stourbridge could have increased the lead further when Brown blazed wide on 52 minutes with only Workington goalkeeper Aaron Taylor to beat. Workington spurned the chance of a consolation goal when Rob Simpson shot meekly at Glassboys goalkeeper Matt Gould.

Boxing club at the double in regional competition finals

DUDLEY'S Priory Park Boxing Club will definitely have a double presence in the National Association of Boys and Girls Clubs Championships semi-finals.

The Priory Road gym got two out of three through the last of the West Midlands finals held at the Triumph Social Club in Coventry.

Former national champion James Mongan and club-mate Jee Johal face last four clashes at the Croxteth Leisure Centre in Liverpool on Saturday.

They both feature in Class A, for fighters born in 2001. Mongan is at 48kg, with Johal at 60kg.

However, another Priory Park fighter, Rahmatullah Sher, battled in vain against the useful Liam Hughes, from Exhall in Coventry, before going down on a split at 60kg in Class B (born 2000).

Ethan Collins, of Brooklands in Dudley, lost a box-off on a split at the regional semi-final stage on a split to Kaash Buttery, from Tom Lowe in Stoke-on-Trent.

Collins' Brooklands club-mate Paige Goodyear may have to go up to 66kg to take on Carlisle's Brodie Stephenson in a female Class B straight national final.

Hole load of preparation for showdown

ENVILLE golf pro Richard Copsey has prepared on both sides of the Atlantic for his shot at winning the £25,000 Golfplan Insurance PGA-Pro Captain Challenge grand final.

Copsey, who is teaming up with club captain Andrew Whitlock in the 36-hole final, put in 80 holes of practice over three days at Saunton, Devon before jetting off to Orlando for warm weather training around the courses of Lake Nona.

And, while it sounds like a well-planned build up for the season ending showdown in Spain, Copsey insists it was just a coincidence. He said: "We always head over to America for some golf at this time of year. It is just fortunate that it has fallen when it did.

"I am not a fan of cold weather and we have a friend at Lake Nona which is the reason we go."

It will mean a smooth switch from the heat of Orlando to the heat of Lumine Mediterranean Beach & Golf Community in Spain for the competition that began yesterday (Wednesday).

Copsey and club captain Whitlock made home advantage pay in the qualifier, shooting a 10 under round at Enville to ease into the final.

STOUR PUNISHED BY OTLEY CREW

Otley 14 Stourbridge 7
STOUR'S National 2 North campaign took a further setback as they were punished for defensive lapses and lost to an Otley side struggling at the wrong end of the table.

Winger Paul Petchey scored in the corner early on and the conversion was added to give Otley the lead. Scores were levelled when a fluffed Otley clearance kick allowed Stour to counter. Scrum half Joe Heatley set up a try for centre James Otutaha that was converted by Chris Scott.

The scoring was completed on the hour mark when Petchey scored his second try, converted by Tom Hodson. This Saturday Stour host Leicestershire-based Hinckley, kick off 3pm.

Camp Hill 45 Stourbridge Lions 55
LIONS kept their unbeaten league run going with a fantastic win at second-placed Camp Hill in a game that saw 100 points and 14 tries.

This was a great performance by the league leaders who go five points clear at the top.

The Lions scored early through Will King and were never headed. The conversion was followed by a Ben Tringham penalty and soon after by the first of George Tildesley's hat-trick.

A shell-shocked Camp Hill were 18-0 down after just 15 minutes with a further Tringham penalty. They clawed their way back in with a try and conversion, but Lions responded with Tildesley's second try.

Again the home 15 crossed for a try, but the Lions responded with a try for King for the bonus points, converted by Tringham and then by No 8 Scotty Langdon. Camp Hill's third try followed before half-time.

For a fair proportion of the second half it remained a keen contest. After 10 minutes Tildesley scored his third try, converted by Tringham. A try and conversion by the home side brought them closer, but another Tringham penalty followed.

A further Camp Hill try brought them within 14 points, but Alex Jones went over, unconverted, for Lions.

The home side scored two more converted tries, one right at the final whistle, but not enough for a losing bonus. A Tringham penalty took the Lions to another half-century of points.

Stepping into ring to aid friend

Reuben takes the gold medal at the World Cup meeting in Romania

A KICKBOXER will step into the ring for the final time this year to help out a friend as a season of success draws to a close.

Reuben Charlesworth, of Lower Gornal, has won regional and national titles this year, as well as four world championships.

Aged 19, he travels around the world competing for his club, CMA Villains in Halesowen and has just returned from Romania where he won the World Cup.

He trains and teaches at the family martial arts centre and also gives back what he has learned over the years by tutoring at schools in Dudley and Sandwell. Reuben has just one competition left this year, which is this weekend. He has cancelled a scheduled bout in Poland on Sunday to line up in Birmingham instead for a charity event for a friend who has been diagnosed with Motor Neurone Disease.

All of CMA Villains will be competing along with many others clubs, who will putting on fights and exhibitions.

Spectators are welcome at North Solihull Sports Centre, Chelsley Wood, from 11am. Admission is £10 on the door or £25 to participate. Call 0121 770 3822.

Six-miler a real test of endurance

THERE were opportunities right on the doorstep for athletes from Dudley King-swinford Running Club at the weekend with huge numbers travelling the short distance to Baggeridge Country Park for the Suicide 6. A colourfully named race organised by Action Heart, the cardiac charity based at Russell's Hall Hospital, over a six-mile course around Baggeridge down into Himley Park and back again, taking in some of the most testing features of both venues.

Within a mile of the start the course took competitors over the trig point, a brutally thigh shredding climb, before a stretch along the clay road sapping any remaining strength from already ruined legs.

Added to this another steep climb across a ridge behind Himley Hall and a waist deep water crossing to negotiate before climbing 111 steps before crossing the line, some in a heap.

Stuart Perkins was first home for the blue hoops in 40.43 taking 10th place, Dave Norman finished in 23rd in 42.57 chased over the line by Simon Hughes in 25th in 43.07.

Gary Bonner was 29th in 43.34, Mick Quane 47th in 44.28, Mark Homer was 53rd in 45.01, Stephen Parr finished 86th in 47.24, Sergej Lyubovnikov was 96th in 48.22 and Darren Marklew came home in 102nd in 48.41.

Andy Weaver came home in 49.47, Richard Tonks in 50.10, Rory Campbell in 51.26, John Sixsmith in 51.34, John Andrews in 53.06, Andy Morrison in 53.20, Karen Doy in 57.10, Malcolm Beddall in 1.00.57, Jane Campbell in 1.01.47, Lisa Kendrick in 1.02.25, Jan Burbie in 1.06.49 and Tony Noke in 1.06.51.

Amanda Hunt, Tracy Jones and Gina Collins all finished together in 1.10.28, Preston Grundy crossed the line in 1.12.34 and Chris Wood finished in 1.12.40.

It's Valentine's Day as visitors snatch it

Halesowen Town 1 Frickley Athletic 2
NATHAN Valentine broke Halesowen's hearts with Frickley's stunning injury time winner. But no-one could begrudge Frickley their vital three points as the struggling visitors created the better openings in a game low in quality.

Kuda Muskwie caused particular danger and he went close on four occasions.

Noel Burdett nipped in to snatch the lead for Frickley in the final seconds of the first half.

Katman Anderson headed Yeltz level in the 52nd minute before Valentine arrowed home a 25-yarder in the third minute of injury time.
